DEDICATION

No, It's Not Mr. Wizzard!

As a freshman walking through the halls of the school for the first time, many thoughts run through your mind. Where am I? Where do I go next? How am I ever going to find my way around? But one of the most haunting questions is, who are my teachers and will I like them?

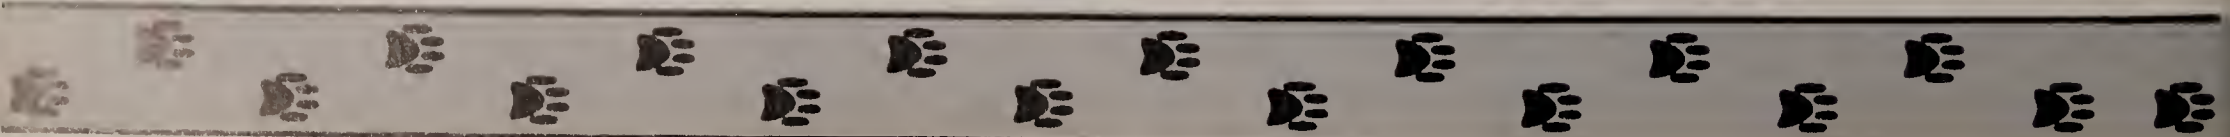

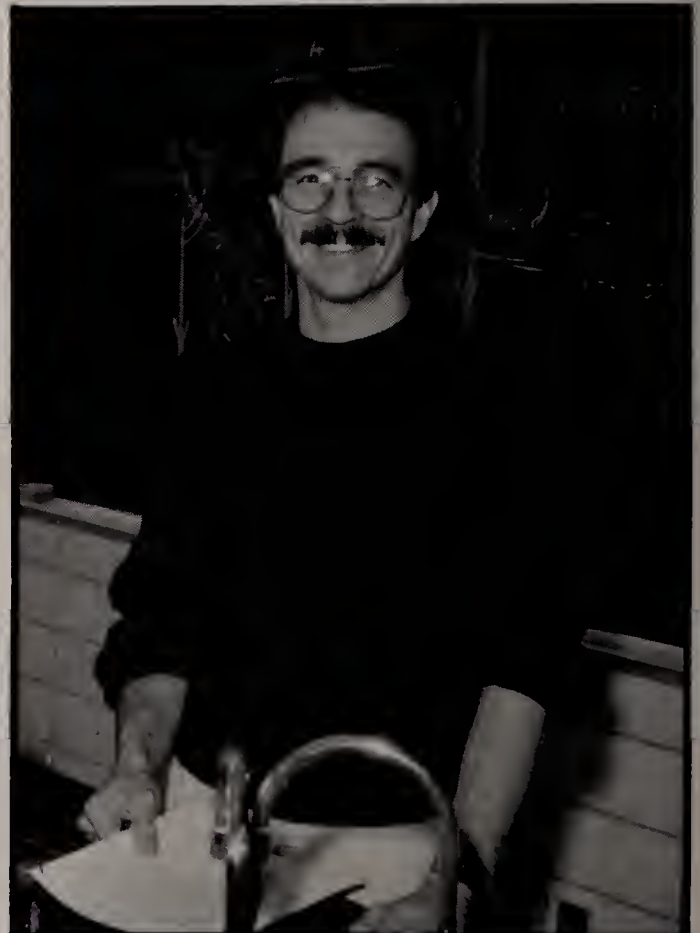

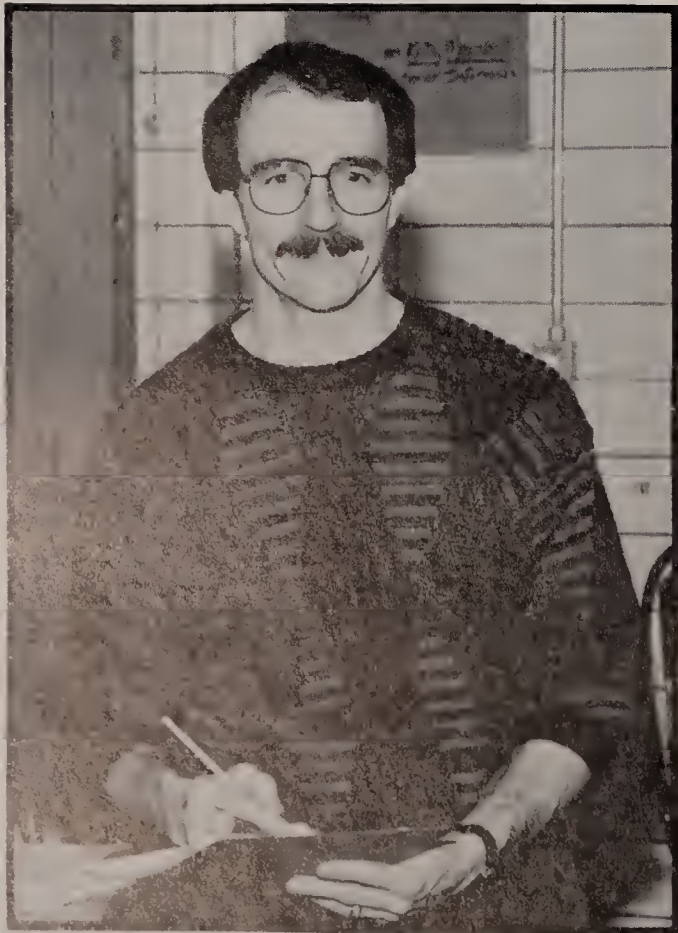

You cautiously enter your first period class and await your teacher. As he enters the room, he gives you a few rules. Be sure to fasten your seatbelt, keep hands and feet in at all times and ENJOY THE RIDE!

You might not have recognized Mr. White by his name, but many of us know him by his cheery disposition, strange sense of humor, and missing finger.

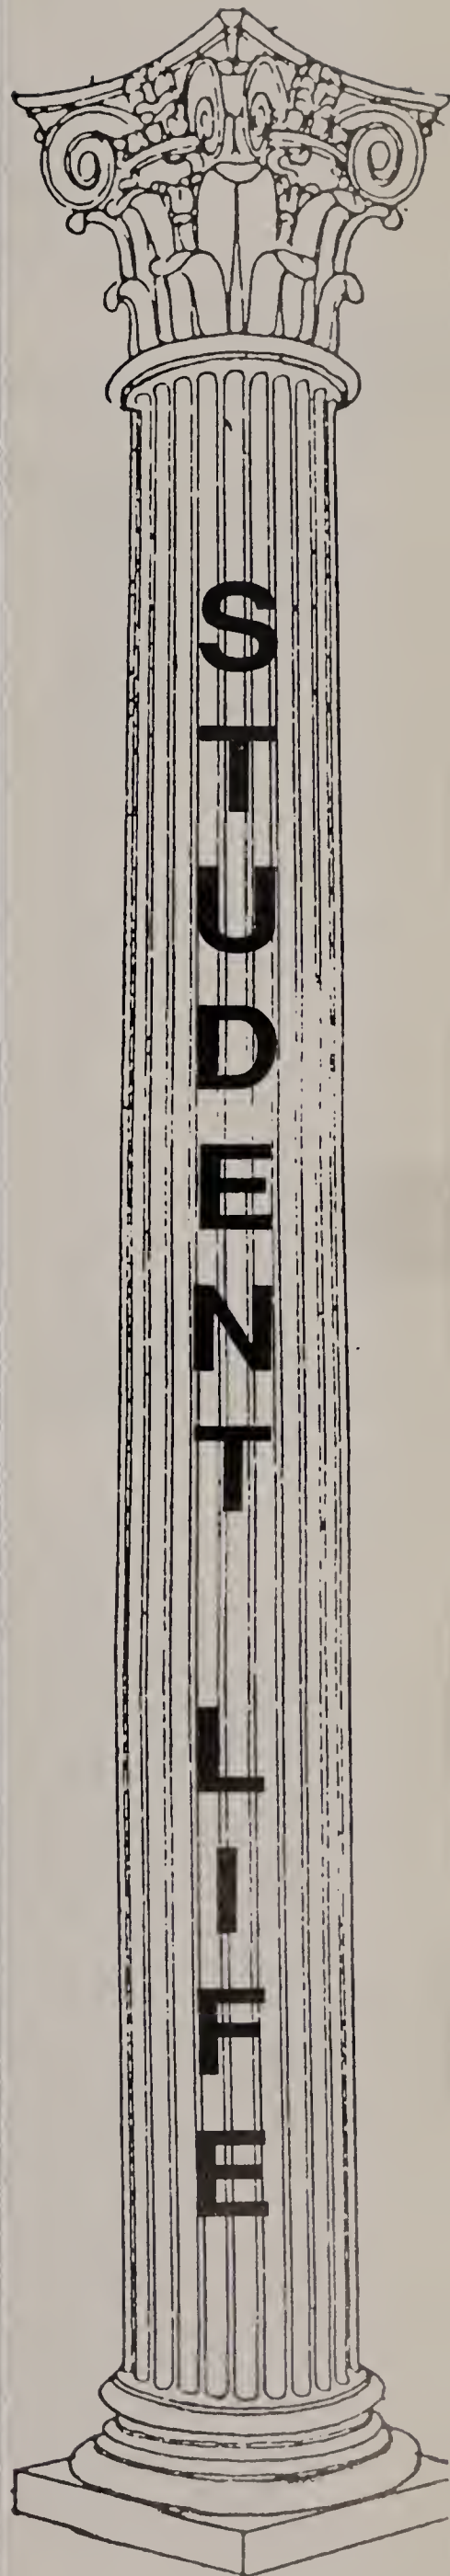

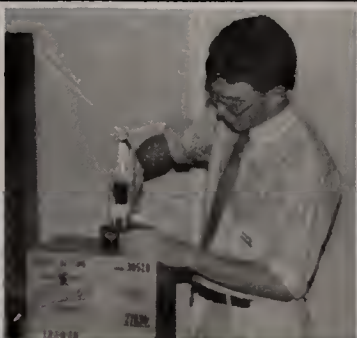

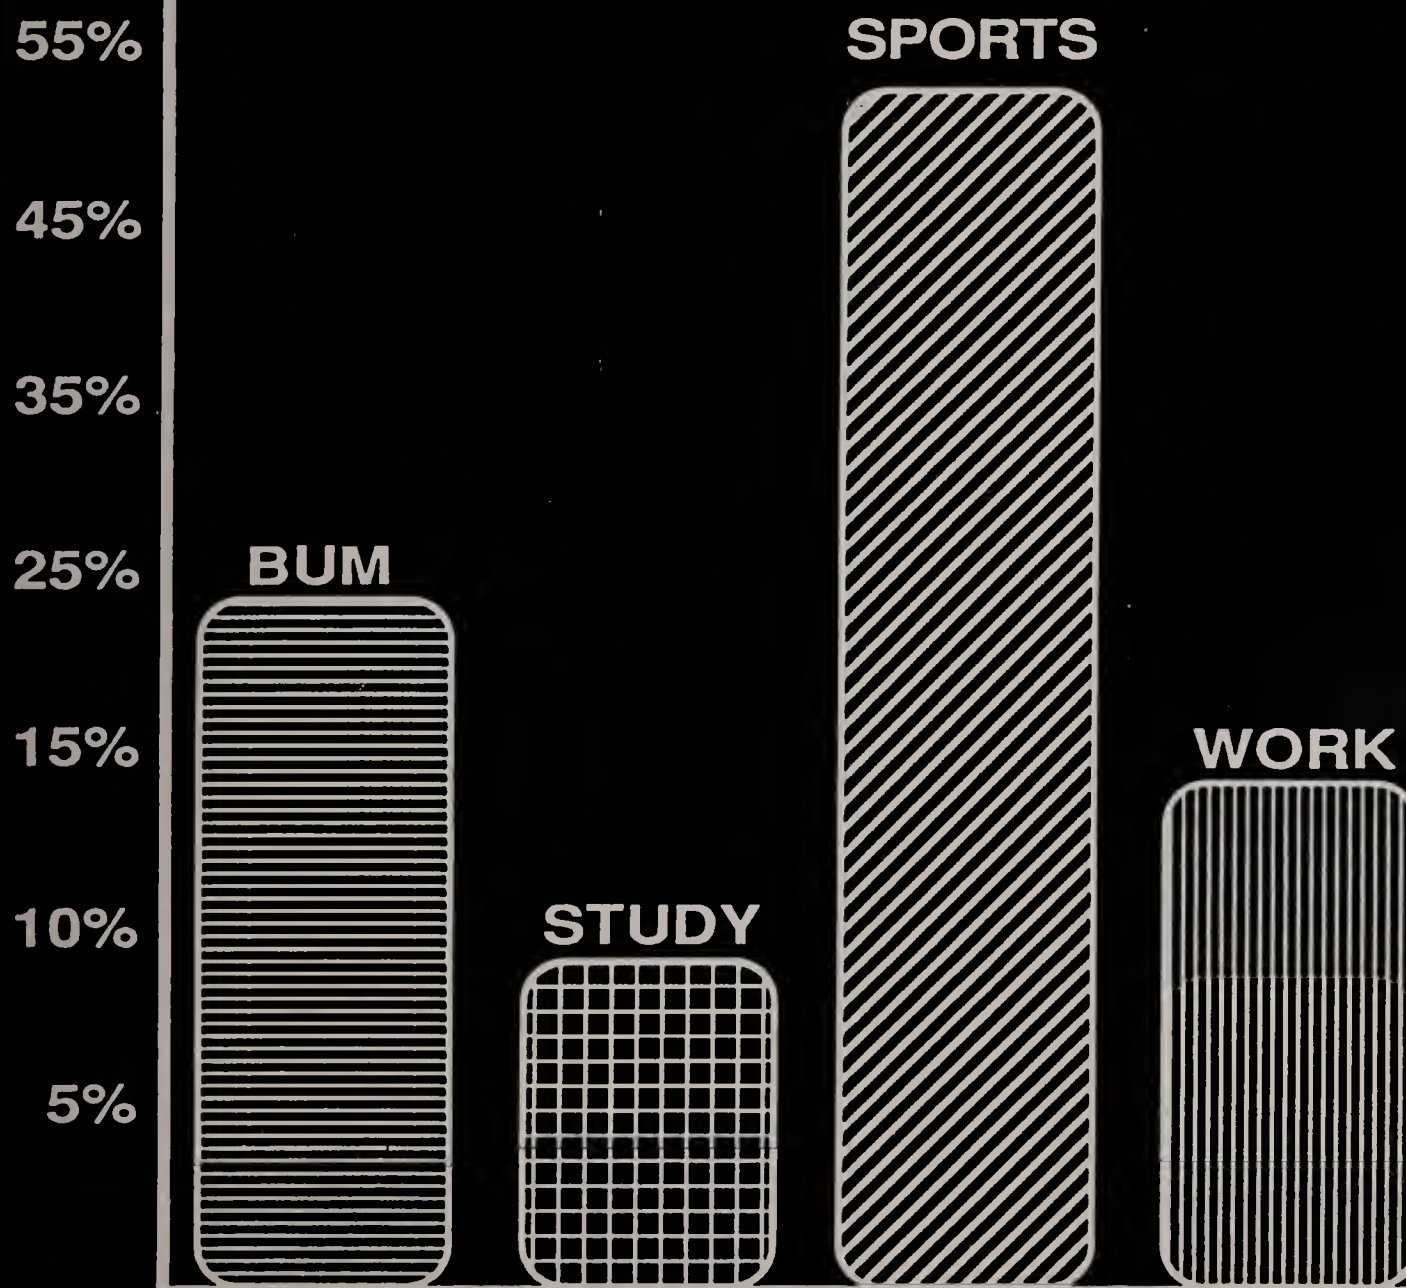

For more than fourteen years, Mr. White has taught students all aspects of the physical sciences, Chemistry, Physics, Astronomy as well as Math (his college major). Mr. White can also be found in the office, correcting some problem with the school's master computer or assisting a teacher or administrator with some application or software problem.

What's it like to have Mr. White for a teacher?

Many students alike his class to a rollercoaster. With all the ups and downs, twists and turns, that sometimes make you nauseous, but the thrill is always there and for some reason, you always want to ride again.

What we do after 1:52

The Bobcats tear out onto the field for the 1991 Homecoming game. Leading are seniors Steve Rosfjord and George Carabase.

Homecoming '91 We Came, We Saw, We Did It All

This year's homecoming game might have been the best game of the year. The intensity was certainly there. The game against Simsbury was only one of the two home games; so it drew a great crowd consisting of students, alumnae, faculty and support staff.

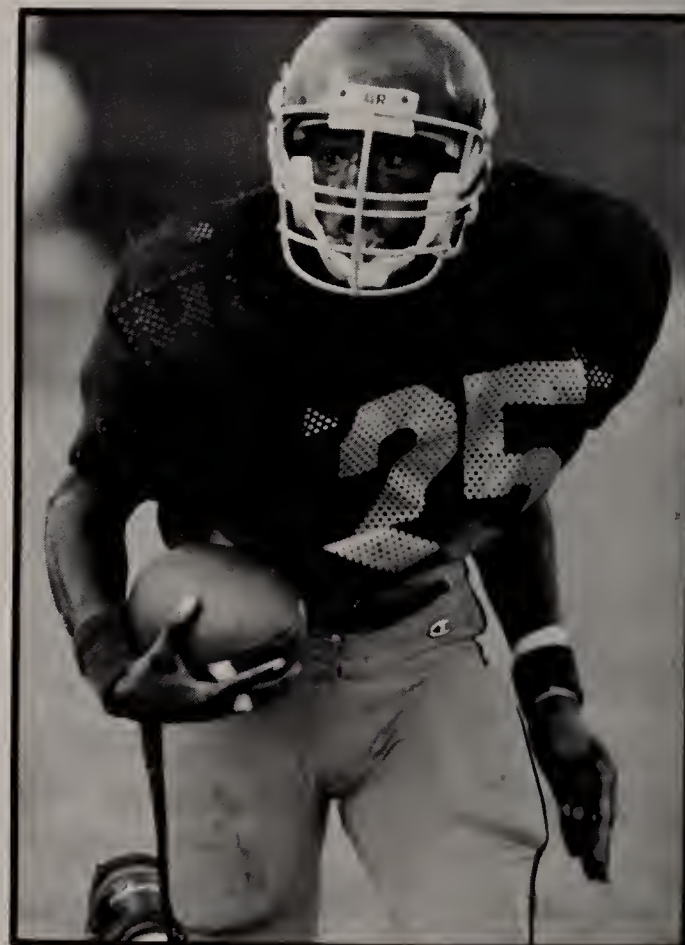

South Windsor got off to a great start, and took an early lead into half-time. South's hardnosed style of play totally dominated Simsbury in the first half. Early in the second half quarterback Kevin Molloy was injured and the Bobcat offense fell apart. They started making mental mistakes, lost their concentration and the Simsbury Trojans took advantage of this weakness. The crowd continued to roar for the Bobcats, but it was not enough to rally the team into victory. Although the team and its fans were filled with the intensity and drive necessary to win a football game, that special something had deserted us for now.

The game might show a loss in the standings, but the Bobcats played with the ferocity worthy of a true Bobcat. As the Bobcats walked off the field that day their heads were held high as we took our loss with dignity. However, the game was not a complete loss because the Bobcat's learned that winning is not everything. Hardhitting and physical play is a characteristic of Bobcat football and the Homecoming game had plenty of that.

This game proved to the Bobcats that you can not take a team for granted. The team used the loss to the Simsbury Trojans as a method for motivation for the rest of the football season. From then on the South Windsor Bobcats had more incentive to prove themselves worthy of the competition that lied ahead.

The game was a turning point for the Bobcat's season. After the Simsbury, South Windsor game the Bobcat's compiled a record of seven wins and two losses.

Junior Kevin Narcisse is psyched and shows he is ready to make a touchdown for the team. This turned out to be a very energetic game.

H O M E C O M I N G

No need to question which class this is, it is obvious that it's the seniors who exhibited great class spirit in the 1991 fall pep rally. Almost all of this year's seniors were clad in maroon and gold.

Homecoming '91 We Came, We Saw, We Did It All

The Junior Class rose in support of their fellow classmates. Although they were not as loud as the Seniors they showed great enthusiasm.

Homecoming 1991 was kicked off by the fall pep rally in which everyone showed great enthusiasm and school spirit. The seniors were especially rowdy, displaying an overwhelming amount of maroon and gold outfits, pompoms, and many painted faces. However it was not just the seniors who showed such spirit, all the classes were there in force to support their friends and teammates.

The spirit that started at the pep rally continued at the bonfire. There were plenty of refreshments for everyone to enjoy, and many students turned on their car radios and danced with their friends in the parking lot.

The big event of the weekend was the Homecoming football game.

Many students, parents, faculty, staff, and alumni. They all showed up to see us play against Simsbury. Unfortunately our football team could not overcome such a strong Simsbury team. But even though we didn't win, our team played with skill and enthusiasm. Hopefully the enthusiasm that was shown at the game will carry over for the rest of the year.

Later that evening the annual Homecoming dance was held in the gym. This year's theme was "Toga Toga", a Roman type festival. The gym was decorated with Roman columns, chariots and many different murals. It was the finishing touch to a fun Homecoming weekend.

We Came, We Saw, & We Did It All

We came as freshmen, we saw the seniors have their fun, now three years later it was our turn to DO IT ALL.

The first day of school we jumped right into the magazine drive. Seniors sold magazines and cassette tapes to help pay their $140 class dues which includes the outing, reception and graduation. Students were rewarded prizes for both weekly and total sales. Some of the prizes were Bobcat shorts and tee-shirts, school mugs and '92 keychains. The seniors sold $32,000, almost reaching the $40,000 goal. The top three sellers were Aaron Brown with $1030, Dave Destefano with $1002, and Todd Kennedy with $809.

To show support for our athletes, the seniors organized a fall pep rally. The pep rally was the first of many activities that kicked off homecoming weekend which consisted of Friday nights bonfire held in front of the gymnasium. The football game was held Saturday afternoon against Simsbury. Many bobcat fans came out and showed their school spirit, unfortunately the bobcats were defeated. The homecoming Toga dance wrapped up the week on Saturday night. The gymnasium was transformed back into Roman times. About twenty five percent of the student body showed up in homemade toga's.

AFTERSCHOOL

It's 1:52, the halls fill up in seconds with students on their way to some sort of activity. But what do they do? Where do they go? Soon the parking lot is worse than rush hour traffic on route 84. Students rushing off, their destination unknown. Some venture into the real world where their jobs await them. Others to the locker room to prepare themselves for a rough day of practice on the field of the sport of their choice. Still others find their way to various extra curricular clubs and activities. The last of the student body go home. To study? Maybe. To sleep? Most likely.

Sophomore Ed Wilson says "I have football practice from 2:05 until 5:00 or 5:30 every day. When I get home, I have just enough time for dinner and to get my homework done."

Going out with friends till about 7:00 is what senior Dawn O'Conner does "Sometimes after school I go and watch our sports teams, and later I spend a lot of time talking on the phone. When I don't go out, I spend a lot of time catching up on my sleep."

"I usually go to work at Bob's from 3:00 to 9:30," says senior Melissa Hudson, "When I'm not working I try to spend some time with Brian or go home and sleep."

On Tuesdays from 2 till 12:00 and on Wednesdays from 8 till 12:00 freshman Colombo DiSalvatore works for his parents. He also has hockey practice once or twice a week for about an hour. On those days that he isn't working or practicing hockey he goes home and does his homework and gets some sleep.

"I go home and eat" says junior Matt Iacobucci "Then I watch some television before I go out with my friends." When he isn't playing football, he lifts weights to keep in shape. Before the night is over he gets his homework done, watches some more T.V. and then he finally goes to bed.

Stay after school voluntarily? No way! Tim Johnson does his best to try and make detention look like a good time.

Summer Vacations

"NOW CLASS . . . The first thing we will be doing this year is writing a theme on . . . What I did during my summer vacation. Please use proper margins and make sure that your writing is legible. A minimum of 1000 words. You may start now."

School is out and it's sort of a buzz... guys out hunting and girls doin' likewise, driving around in search of summer madness. You might have heard these lyrics by The Fresh Prince describing the lifestyle of teenagers during the summer months.

"Time to sit back and unwind," the chorus sings. How true.

Todd Rainville is a member of FBLA. His original interest in the business area made him want to look into this career. "FBLA gives it's members some ideas on the business world so that they can see if it really an interest," says Todd. "The challenging part of FBLA is to get people to join and then planning the activities. There isn't an incredibly large amount of things to do so it isn't bad."

Many people do not realize how much work goes into the making of the yearbook, however, the class taught the students how much work is really involved. The process of putting the yearbook together is a difficult task.

The first decision that has to be made is to decide on a theme for the yearbook. This is always a hard process. This year it was especially hard because there were a lot of good choices. After the theme's chosen, the next step is to design the pages. The hardest part of this process is to make sure the page fits in with the rest of the yearbook. For example this year, we had to make sure all the pages in the activity section had the space for the bobcat pawprints at the bottom of the page.

There is more to yearbook than designing pages. There is also the section that is in charge of the money and the ads. This year that department was run by co-leaders Kathy Beal and Kim St. Lawrence. However, the whole class sells ads for the yearbook. There is a lot of hard work that goes into the yearbook.

Left: Yearbook class is not just work, it can be wild and crazy too. Many unusual things go on before, during and after class. Karen Minor played a trick on A.J. Sawka by pulling his hood over his head and tying the string. Later A.J. got his revenge. Bottom: As editors-in-chief, Lauralee Jarvis and Aaron Wing can always find something to do. They can go from finishing up a page on the computer to designing a page in the same day. During fifth period, one can always find them scrambling around helping people with their projects. Today, they are finishing typing a story for one of the many pages and tomorrow they will run around trying to meet the next deadline.

"I took this class mostly for college," stated Melissa Myette. The best thing was the "way we were given the responsibility in a free way. We were treated more mature in this class than any other class," she commented.

When asked why he decided to take the class Aaron Wing replied, "The quality of last year's yearbook. It was pathetic! I wanted a better yearbook." Aaron liked being in this class because "the work keeps me busy."

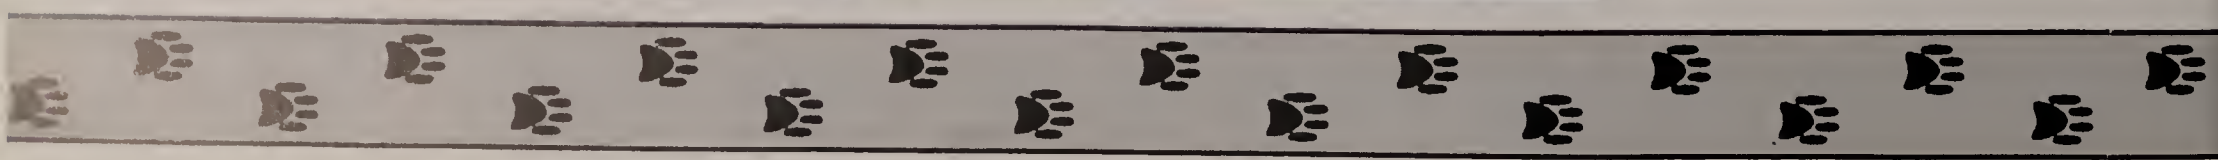

Kerri-Lynn Kinsley thought that "deciding on the theme" of this yearbook was the hardest part about this class. She liked the way the class was handled because "it gives us a chance to work alone and with friends."

Jeremy Carti claims that there was "nothing better to do" before he signed up to take the class. For Jeremy the most difficult decision was "the ad campaign because there were many different ways that it could be done."

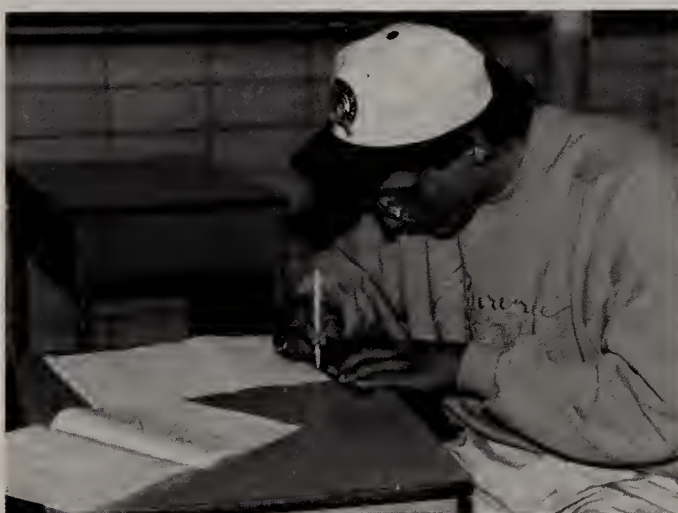

"I didn't want a cheesy yearbook!" answered Megan Rippchen. "I wanted to be part of my senior yearbook. I don't like what some people have done to it in the past," she complains. "The best thing was meeting new people."

Approximately sixty-nine students in three classes make up the Southwinds staff. Most staff members are Journalism Graphic Communications I students, while a core group of Journalism Graphic Communications II students serve as editors in each class.

The editors meet every Wednesday morning at 6:30 to coordinate efforts and to decide policy. Decisions about what to publish and what not to publish begin with lessons on libel laws and journalistic ethics of fairness and objectivity. The Southwinds has an editorial policy which intendeds to uphold those standards. When controversial issues arise, the discussion about how to approach the issues are carried on with discussions in classes and during editorial board meetings. If a consensus is not reached, a majority vote of the editorial board would decide the issues. After each issue is published they begin the next cycle with a "teardown" session to analyze the last issue, then "brainstorm" ideas and project for the upcoming issues. Staff members are encouraged to pursue ideas that they generate, but the editors and advisors all contribute ideas and make assignments.

If you are the type of person who enjoys writing creative stories and can take on the challenge of working under the pressure of deadlines, then join the Southwinds staff.

Literary Magazine

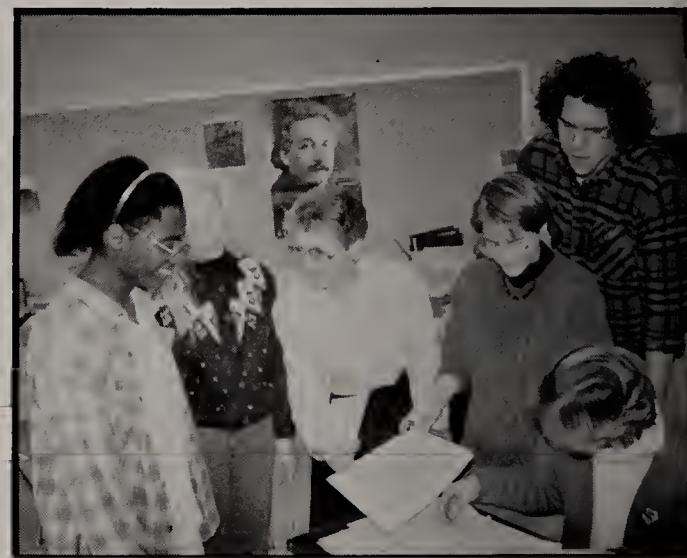

"In My Mind's Eye"

The Literary Magazine provides an opportunity for student writers and artists to display their talents by having their work published. Students from freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes have submitted poetry, short stories, short essays, and artwork for consideration. Some pieces submitted come from various cultural backgrounds, such as Vietnamese, French, and Spanish. The magazine staff reviews works and decides what is published. All the stories and artwork for the magazine are written, designed, laid out, and printed by students. At the end of the year the graphic arts classes join with the "Lit. Mag." staff to produce the printed pages and have them bound. "In My Mind's Eye" is a great opportunity for students to show how creative they are in a magazine that has been awarded ratings of Superior by The National Council of Teachers of English.

Most students only have a vague idea as to what the National Honor Society is and what is involved in becoming a member. The National Honor Society this year consists of a group of seventeen seniors that have been specially selected for their academic achievements and their service records. Students selected must maintain an A-average or above in level three or four classes. There are strict guidelines for students who are involved in the National Honor Society that must be met in order to qualify and to maintain membership. These students must show qualities of scholarship, leadership, service, and character in their school and community.

This year the National Honor Society sold flowers as a fundraiser to benefit the Emily Hebert Fund. Food drives in conjunction with the Student Council are held during holidays such as Thanksgiving and Christmas to benefit the needy in our town. The National Honor Society also raises money toward a trip of their own in the Spring. If you meet all the criteria necessary to become a member of the National Honor Society, then this could be a worthwhile experience for you.

Student Council

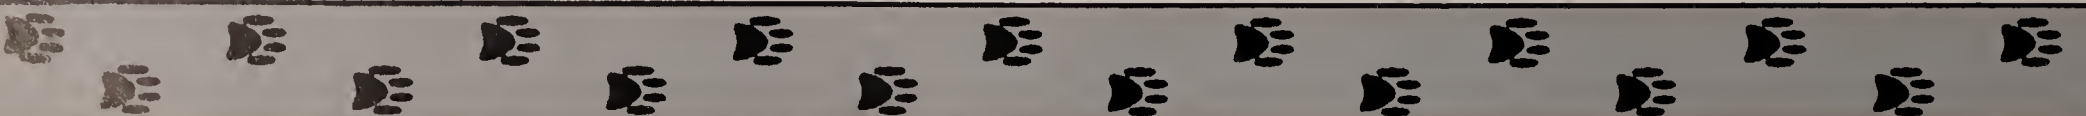

The advisor to Student Council this year is Miss Sabatini. This is her first year with Student Council, as last year it was run without an advisor. There are thirty to forty students who attend the meetings on a regular basis. The elected officers for this year are co-presidents Pete DiPaolo and Helen Shum; Treasurer, Jennifer Percy; Secretary Todd Marks; and six students who serve on the executive board. Student Council sponsors many activities around the school including spirit week, red ribbon week, various fundraisers, organizing homecoming court, spirit links, and dances. The organization would like to be more active in school government so they can bring about changes in school policies. Miss Sabatini feels that the activities they have done have increased spirit, and that student council has taken a stand on school issues. In the coming months, student council plans to have a dance or fundraiser for Emily Hebert and Tracy Dreher, graduates of the class of 1991, who were injured in an accident. Miss Sabatini feels that all of the members of student council are motivated and would like to see more of a cross section of students in order to hear a variety of opinions.

The South Windsor Ambassador Team, advised by Miss Folta, is a group of students who give of themselves to aid and assist others. The members hold fundraisers, assist at the blood mobile, and help new students find their way around the school. All of the money they raise from their fund raisers go back to the community or to charity. SWAT helps with the Freshmen orientation and at the breakfast held each year for students new to the school. In the last few years, the organization has grown from just a hand full of students to its present size of 68 members. The goal of SWAT is to be viewed by the community, school staff, and other students as those who are willing to help others when or wherever needed.

Mock Trial

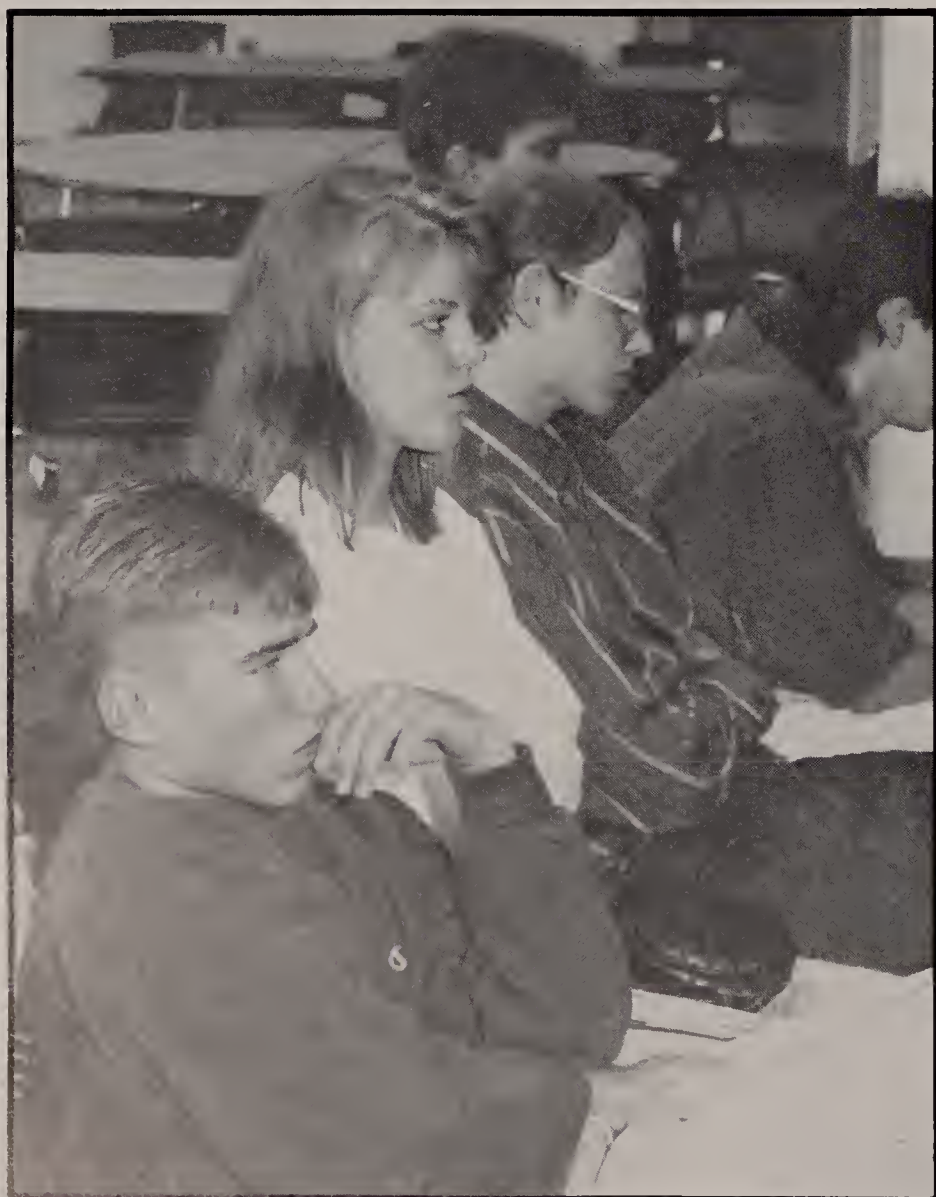

This year's Mock Trial Team accomplished something that no other team has done since 1987, made it to the state semi-finals. The team first competed in the districts, which are held at Manchester Superior Court. After the two sides (plaintiff and defense) won their cases at the district level, the next step was state semi-finals.

The date of the semi-finals was the same day as the SAT's. Since this year's team is composed of mostly Juniors, it almost caused difficulty for the team. Instead of being held in the morning the competition was held in the afternoon, after SAT's. The team headed to Uconn Law School for this competition. Defence was first to present and were able to win their case.

The next step is the second stage of the semi-finals, April 25. The state finals are on May 2. Even though the team hopes to be successful, they are just out to have fun. Winning is just the added bonus to show the hard work and effort they put in.

A National Bicentennial Team consists of six separate teams, each taking a different section in a designated textbook. Each of these groups have three questions that the judges might ask them at the competition. Since no one knows which one will be asked, the team must prepare for all of them.

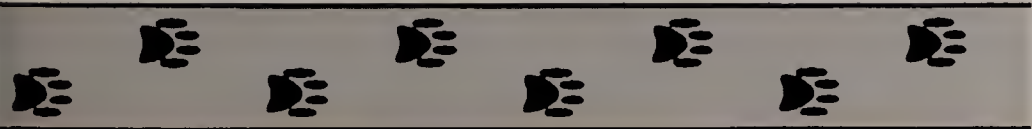

The questions and the text deal with the constitution and our government. This is why all the members have to be enrolled in a Political Science class.

This year's teams made things difficult for Miss Moran (the programs advisor). Due to the growing number of students who now take the class, South Windsor, for the first time, had enough students to make up two teams. This meant that no matter how close the two teams were, only one could come home the winner.

Both teams did extremely well. South Windsor took first and second place at the districts. The A period class came home the winners. This qualified them for states, where they took second place.

Outing Club

The Outing Club is an organization where students can participate in sports they enjoy that are not offered during the school year and have to do with the outdoors. This year the club is run by new advisors: Miss Cloutier and Mr. Cloutman. Although they have been active in the club for many years, they took over the responsibilities of running the organization after Mr. Rioux resigned. Their love of sports convinced them that they should become the new co-directors of the Outing Club.

One trip that should become a yearly event is Colorado. This year was the second time SWHS flew west for a ski trip. Hopefully, with an improving economy, we should expect an increase in the number attending.

Another fun-filled get-away is to go to Canada with the Outing Club. This trip lets students visit a foreign country for a short time and enjoy

"My favorite sport is skiing. Last year I went to Colorado and it was the best ski trip ever. The advisors let you live your own life; they trust you." Brian Moore some great skiing, but skiing is not the only activity the club provides for students. There are many other aspects to the Outing Club for which students get involved. There are also hiking, white water rafting, and horseback riding.

The Outing Club, allows for a variety of students to be actively involved with many sports and outdoor activities.

"The Outing Club is still alive! This year we're trying to do everything from horseback riding, to canoeing, to white water rafting. It's a lot of fun and more people should get involved." Advisor Mr. Cloutman.

"The Outing Club this year has been offering trips and despite the small turnout of participants, trips have been taking place. We have had successful excursions including horseback riding, hiking, skiing, and canoeing." Advisor Miss Cloutier.

The Drama Club began this year by putting on Don't Drink the Water, a comedy written by Woody Allen. In this play three American tourists, played by Michael Melocowsky, Jody Krasner, Caroline Smiledge, are accused of spying in a communist country. They run to the American Embassy where Axel Magee, a blundering idiot played by Jeff Stead, was left in charge in his mother's absence. The world turns upside down for the three tourist. Axel Magee's assistant Miss Kilroy is of some help until she got hit in the head with a brick and thought she was the Wright Brothers and an airplane at the same time. (continued on the next page)

Vocal Ensemble

Look out Broadway cause here we come! Vocal Ensemble has been around for as long as anyone can remember. Most people never give the group or the class much thought until after hearing them sing at a concert. From then on, those who have seen their performances have been impressed.

For the past few years, vocal has participated in well known music festivals and done quite well in the adjudication. For these competitions, students travel around the Eastern Coast to such exciting places as Niagara Falls, Toronto, Annapolis, and Philadelphia. For such performances, the group sings music from many different time periods including contemporary.

Aside from taking such field trips, the group performs many concerts during the year. In preparation for their concerts the students, "Hammer it" as vocal director Mr. Graner often puts it. Members of vocal are often found singing in the halls, you know who you are. Vocal Ensemble is a class for people who enjoy singing whether it be in the shower, or in the halls. Why not join today?

Ding Dong merrily on high" rang throughout the lobby of South Windsor High School. Choral Spectrum started their annual holiday tour in the halls. They sang at the Old State House, Manchester Hospital, St. Francis Hospital, the Hartford Civic Center, the Pavillions at Buckland Hills, and South Windsor Nursing Home. Spectrum also sang on two radio stations.

Although Spectrum started out this year very inexperienced, they had talent. This talent was evident as six members of Choral Spectrum made the All-State Chorus. These people were Adam Graham, Matt Glasser, Chris Briggs, Kathy Beal, Coleen Mazur and Lori Helbig.

This year Choral Spectrum went to Toronto to compete in a music festival. They were very satisfied with their performance. It has been a very successful year for the group. Spectrum has excelled this year and has become a fine quality singing group.

Far Left: Although not a member of the choral groups, Cheryl Kasevich and the rest of the orchestra played many times with Choral Spectrum and Vocal Ensemble. Instrumental Music

Standing: Dawn O'Connor, Sandra Bachmuts, Carrie Kausch, Tyng Loh, Heather Keith, Nicole Jones, Jenn Mordavsky Sitting: Lisa Gleico, Becky Mastronarde, Eileen Morgan, Cheryl Kasevich

Phi Nguyen has been playing the violin for seven years. She likes playing the violin because, "It's fun, we meet new people, and we get to go on lots of fun trips." Phi has learned that "practice does make perfect."

"I've been playing bass only since June. I'll play anything because I like all styles of music," replied Gibb Schreffler. "Classical music is relatively unpopular but I like to do things that are different," he stated.

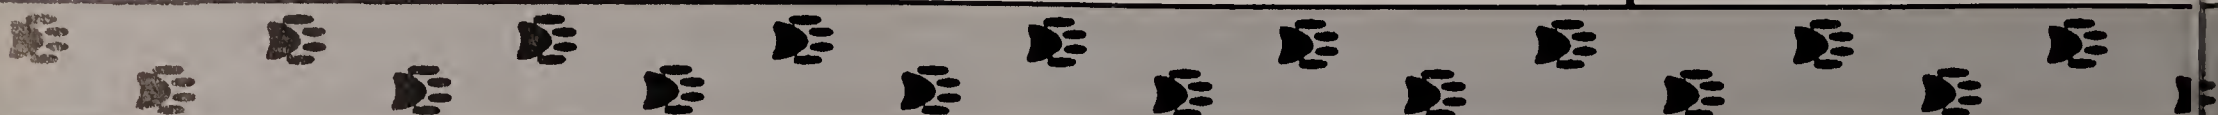

Becky Mastronarde thinks that the hardest thing about playing the violin is "listening to yourself to correct your own errors. The best thing is that orchestra is a very laid back class, and we have lots of fun."

"I play my flute for fun and to help me relax," states Nicole Jones. She has learned "That when you work hard to accomplish something, if done right, the results are wonderful!" "Thanks Mr. Lazzerini for your patience."

"Music is the hardest thing to read and interpret. Harder than any piece you could write or read in a regular course," said Kim Willis. The best thing about the clarinet is, "it's an indirect way of expressing yourself."

A Part of All Our Lives

Music. That's what it's all about. Whether it be classical Bach or modern day Metallica, students love music. Those who decide to join various performing groups often enroll in more than one. For example, a small group of talented musicians are members of the highly acclaimed Brass Ensemble, Stage Band, and Concert Band. What commitment.

Other students may choose to perform such classical works by joining Orchestra. The group is looking forward to this year's trip to Niagara Falls where they will be adjudicated along with other musical groups from various high schools.

Many people who have seen the performances don't know how much time is spent working on the music, but still they appreciate the sounds just as much.

Excited? Nervous? Not these two old pro's, Sandra Bachmuts and Jennifer Mordavsky. They stand waiting their turn at this year's Cabaret Concert held in the fall.

LauraLee Jarvis has been playing the clairnet "since fourth grade. I enjoy playing in the band." She doesn't like that band is only offered during one period a day because "it takes a period where you could be doing something else."

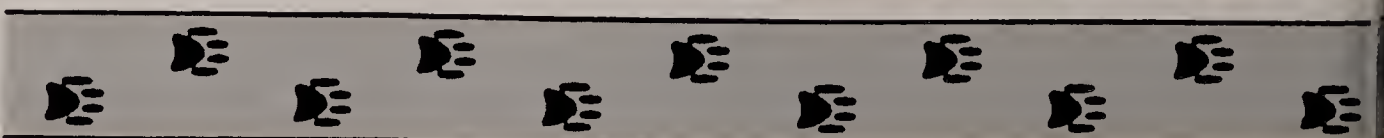

"I guess it was my grandfather who influenced me, he plays the drums and I play percussion," stated Ben Foster who has been playing for five years. "There were a lot of electives that I had to give up for band because of scheduling."

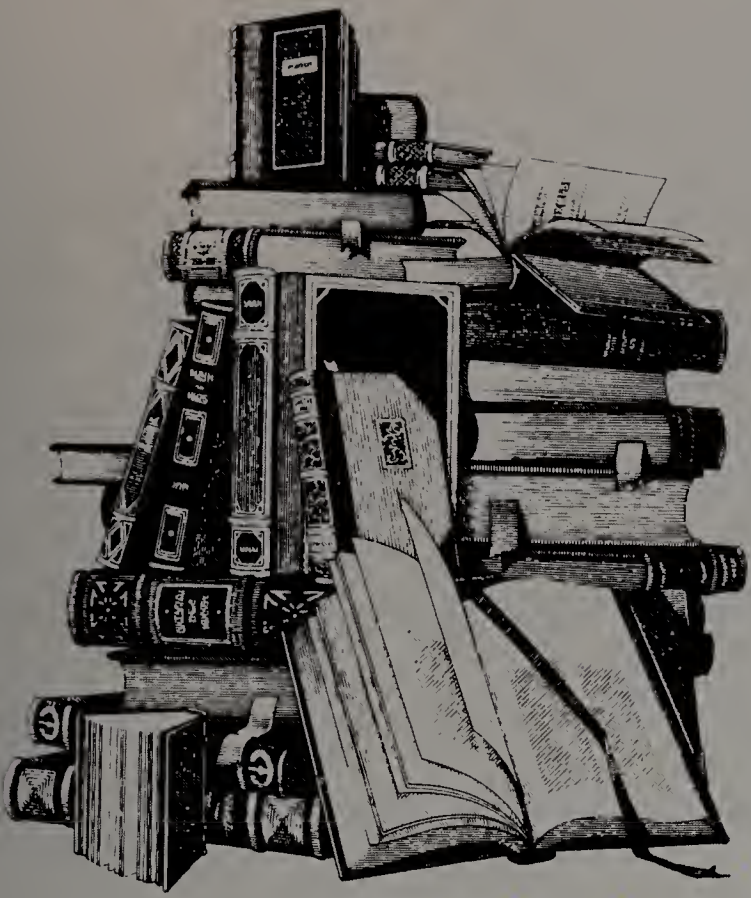

Claire Yates would have liked to play the saxophone or the drums but she decided on the clairnet, which she has been playing for four years. "It's fun, the music is challenging and you have to practice a lot to improve yourself."

Media Aids

The Media Center has three student aids that put away books, run errands, and other do miscellaneous tasks. "It has been very slow in the Media Center this year with everyone getting geared up to move to a new building," said Mrs. Brown. Mr. Schackner stated, "The aids are very helpful, but there are not enough." Maybe once the new library is open more students will be willing to volunteer.

"I became a Media Aid because I wanted to help out and do odds and ends in the Media Center," said Derek Beganski, one of the three aids that assist the librarians on a daily basis during their free periods. According to Mr. Schackner the aids are a vital part of keeping up with the paperwork in the Media Center.

Bicycle Club

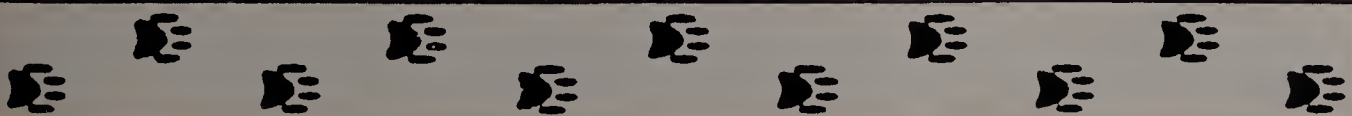

Kacen Clapper is a member of the bicycle club. He became a member because he believes that it is more enjoyable to ride with other people. Kacen has been riding since sophomore year. He began after visiting some friends that were into biking. Shortly after he purchased his own bike. He enjoys riding in South Windsor, Windsor, and Valley Falls Park in Vernon.

Ralph Kogan became a member of the bicycle club so that he could get in shape for track, find new places to mountain bike, meet new people and put some miles on his bike. Ralph has been riding for ten years and mountain biking since this past summer. He rides in places such as Somers, Vernon, and Valley Falls Park in Vernon, his favorite spot being Valley Falls.

FBLA

FBLA is an international organization of students interested in furthering their knowledge and understanding of the American Free Enterprise System. The Future Business Leaders of America meets after school to teach students about the business community in our society.

In this club students develop vocational competencies that will enable them to advance their careers in business. The basic goal of FBLA is to teach students how to become an effective business leader.

With the rapidly changing technology in the business world, it is important for students to learn human relation skills and a realistic view of the employment world. During the time spent in FBLA students will also increase self-confidence that will enable them to pursue a successful career in business.

Peer Advocates

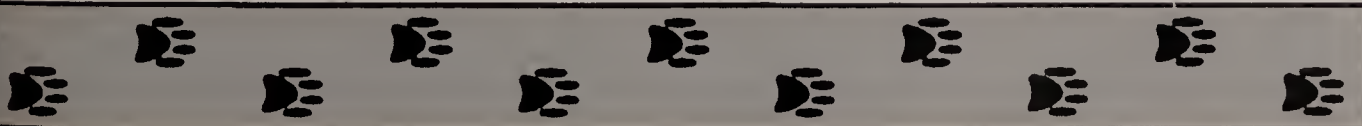

The Peer Advocate program is one that is new to South Windsor High School. The Advocates are first recommended by the faculty and then are required to take the Foundations in Counseling course. If the student still wishes to continue on as an advocate, they then must fill out an application and be interviewed by one or both advisors.

The program was started in the high school in hopes of teaching students to help other students. All the advocates receive training in major issues which pertain to the students, such as drugs and alcohol, teen pregnancy, divorce, and suicides.

Class Officers

The Senior executive board and class officers of each grade consists of an elected group of hardworking people who plan and produce various activities; such as, class fundraisers and trips, Sophomore ring dance and the Junior prom. Seniors have other special projects such as the magazine drive, Homecoming, spring event, outing, reception, and graduation. Which is not an easy task.

Senior class president Brian Moore said, "The activities run smoothly because of the help from all the students and the advisors," when asked why the events planned went so smoothly. The events require the help of all the executive board members. It is not always an easy job. The officers put in a lot of time and effort into each and every activity.

There is a big distinction between the halls of T.E. and the entrance way of the High School. There is so much more freedom here. Sometimes you feel microscopic and at other times you feel accepted. The best part about being a freshman is the times with people and close friends, but mostly looking forward to the day we are not called "freshman." Being a freshman to me means I can get involved. I'm taking my last step. I don't have to say anymore that I'm in elementary or middle school. I'm finally here and I'm going to work and enjoy it. The most memorable thing had to be walking through the entrance door of the H.S. for the first time.

Freshmen

Class of 1995

Being a freshman in South Windsor High School isn't easy but Adam Kinney has adjusted quite well. He came into high school thinking he would be another play toy for the upper classmen but luckily he thought wrong. "I really don't feel intimidated by the upperclassman, no one really bosses me around."

The hardest part he says is adjusting to the work load. "The teachers expect a lot more from you in this school, it's not like Timothy Edwards. So far he has proved that he can handle the workload. Since he plays basketball and baseball he has an incentive to maintain at least a C average. Adam is just one of the many freshmen who are having a great time in high school. "High school isn't half as bad as everyone says it is, they're just trying to scare you." Hopefully Adam will have another successful three years just as great as this one.

Freshman Adam Kinney displays great strength, as he crushes a soda cup; hoping to impress his friend Jen Ridder.

Freshmen Mikullitz to Soucy

Class of 1995

According to upperclassmen, freshmen are not considered worthy of their attention. There are better things to do like homework or sleeping.

Butterflies through your stomach and picking out that perfect outfit. These are some of the thoughts that race through the mind of a freshmen to be, the night before the first day of school. What will it be like? Of course there is a feeling of anxiety that coarses through the veins of every freshmen as they ponder about being in the high school.

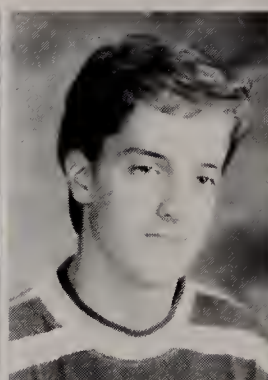

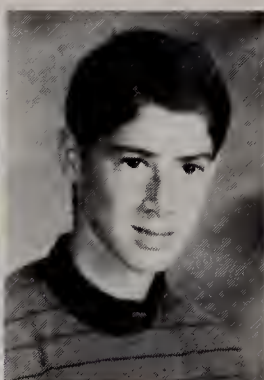

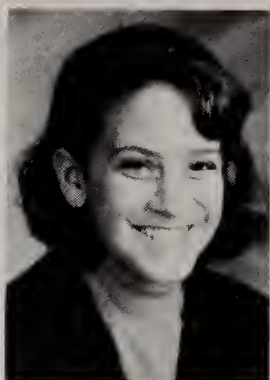

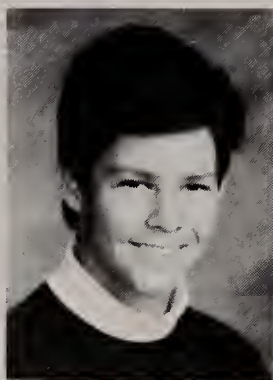

The majority of freshmen were mad because their summers ended too early. The easy laid back summer is being replaced by the hectic fall. No more sleeping in late. Sleeping in, will be replaced by waking up to the sounds of a ringing alarm clock. No more late nights out because there is school the next morning. Curfews will become reinforced and will probably become earlier.

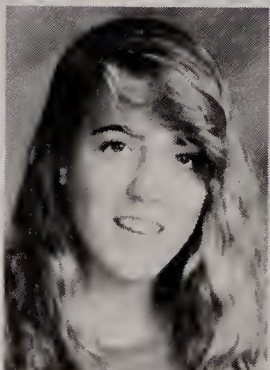

Freshmen are the new kids in the school and with that comes a feeling of anxiety combined with fear. There is a common myth that the "big" Seniors will pick on the "little" Freshmen but in reality there is nothing to be afraid of. The Seniors are not mean to Freshmen, if anything, they are friendly and try to make the transition into high school as easy as possible. The Freshmen aren't thrown into lockers. Being a Freshman doesn't mean you are inferior to the Seniors. Cheer up Freshmen you have a lot to look forward to in your next three years of school. This is just the beginning, after all we were all Freshmen at one time.

When asked what it was like being a sophomore, Stacey Roth replied, "It is not that different than last year. When I walked in on the first day it was like I had never left." According to Stacey, the only excitement of being a sophomore is the long awaited ring dance. "The ring dance is the first time during high school years that a class unites as one," as Stacey explained. This dance is when each sophomore that has ordered a ring actually receives it. The tradition of turning the ring joins the class together, because in order to reach your goal you have to incorporate your entire class as one. The most memorable thing about being sophomore is experiencing the joy of seeing freshmen running around clueless.

Coming to America...

Coming to a foreign country requires adapting to many changes. For senior David Vaca, an exchange student from Ecuador, adapting has been easy.

David, 18, arrived in the United States in August and will be returning home next July. He lives in Quito with his family which includes his parents, a younger sister, two brothers, a Siberian Husky, and a piranah named Cyndi Lauper.

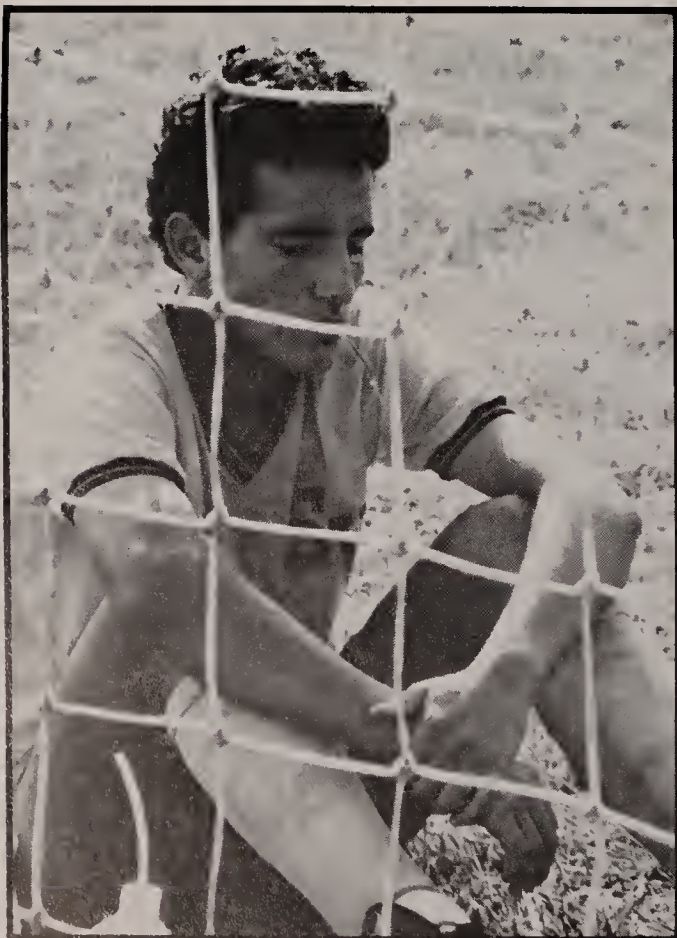

Besides playing for the varsity soccer team, Dave enjoys many other activities in his spare time. He likes to read police and mystery stories. He also enjoys watching "The Cosby Show" and "America's Funniest Home Videos."

Even though David likes the United States, he misses his home. "I miss my friends, my parents, my school, and being able to speak my native language." Every week he takes time out of his schedule to write his family and friends.

by Scott Marshall and Kevin Lane.

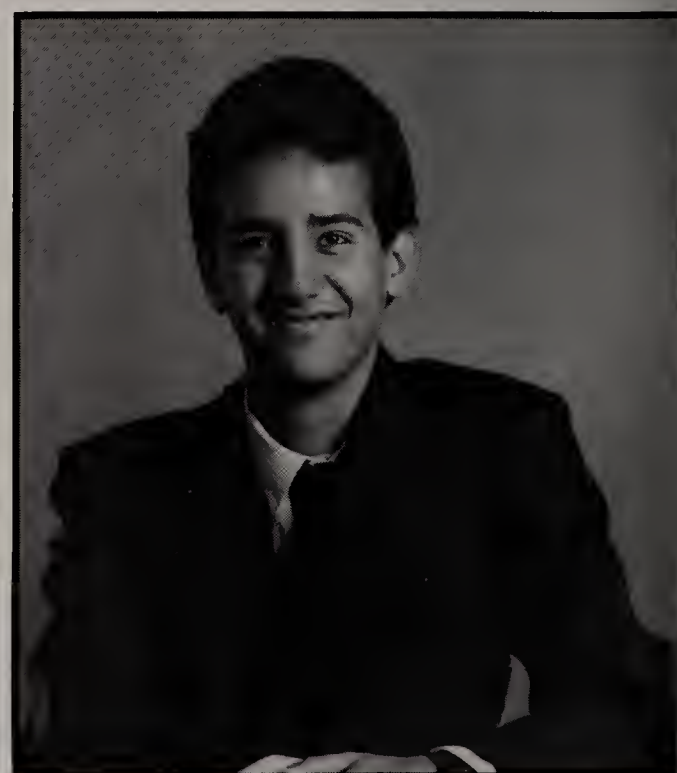

David looks somewhat bewildered as he sits among his friends in study hall. It appears he is not paying too much attention to his reading.

David sits in the goal contemplating the next half of the soccer game. Dave plays many positions on the front line.

Having fun is what it is all about and that is what seniors Marybeth Chinnici and David Vaca are doing.

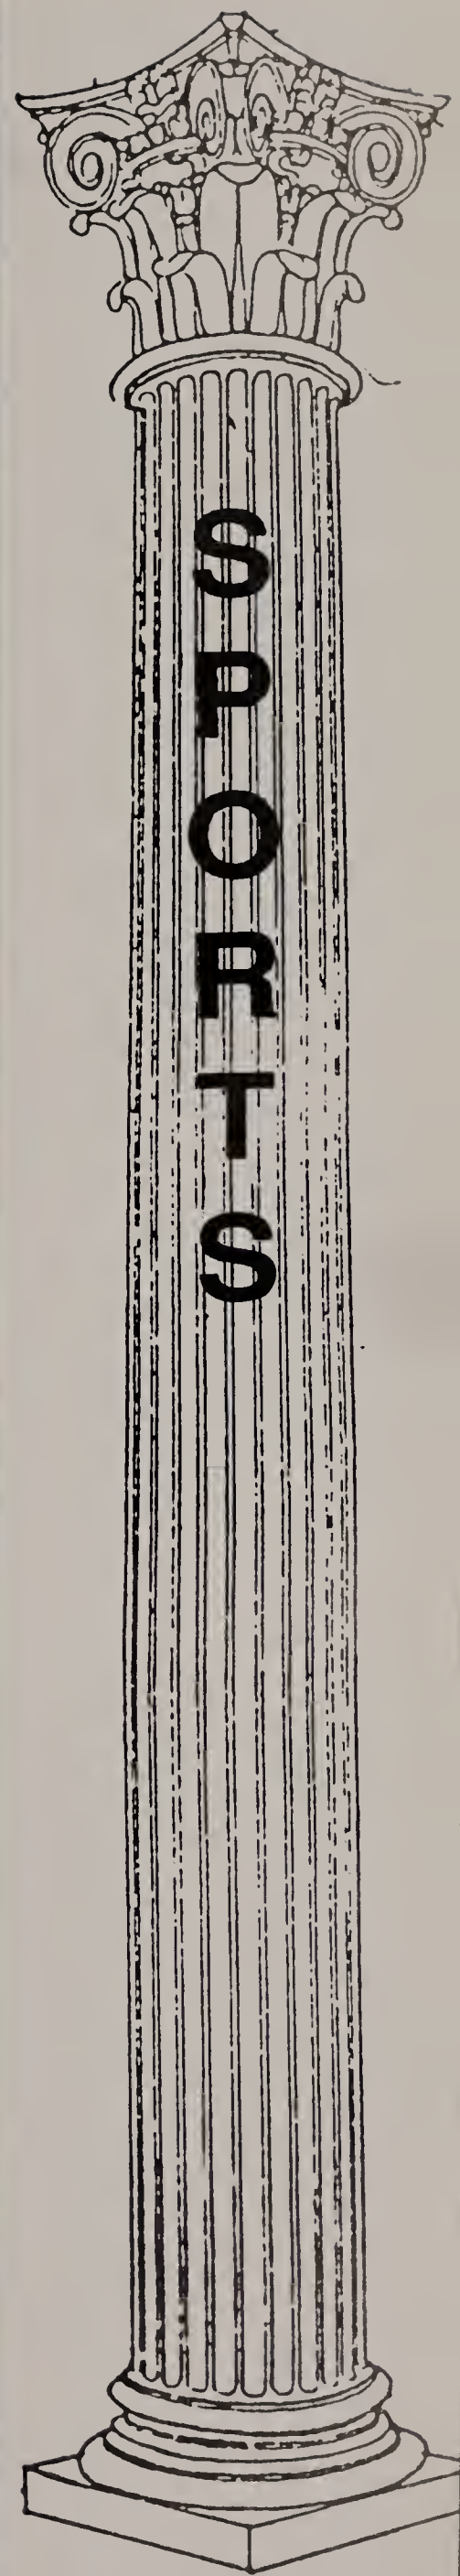

In a formal pose, David is all decked out. He wants to show everyone back home how good he looks.

The new athletic director, Rebecca Marsh, commented, "I am proud to be at SWHS. Your school has a good reputation and is well respected.

There is great potential to further enhance our programs."

The Athletic Director's job is a complicated and time consuming one. Scheduling of officials and getting the right teams to the right places make for many long and hectic days.

Great Moments in Sports

The Bobcat tries to get the crowd psyched up for the game.

Mr. Collins and the varsity soccer team celebrate another victory.

The ball?!? Where's the ball??? Where did it go!!!?

Senior Wendy Perkins makes a mad rush to beat her opponents to the ball.

Fall Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders started the season with an inexperienced squad. It was the first time that there were four freshman on the squad. During the summer, the squad spent a week in Maryland, in a cheerleading camp at Salisbury State University. At camp the team won awards for leadership along with spirit. With a lot of hard work and practice the cheerleaders pulled the squad together.

The cheerleaders had a busy schedule, cheering for both soccer and football. They had a difficult job of getting the fans to cheer with them. The cheerleaders were successful at getting the crowd to cheer with them at soccer games; however, football games proved to be a more difficult challenge. The cheerleaders were dedicated and even inspite the fact that they were inexperienced, it is still considered to be a very successful season for the squad.

"Cheerleading has been a great experience for me, it has been really exciting and fun for me to represent South Windsor High School. Attending games throughout the year, meeting new people, and participating in pep rallies has greatly increased my school spirit as well." stated Jennifer Levack, senior co-captain of the cheerleading squad.

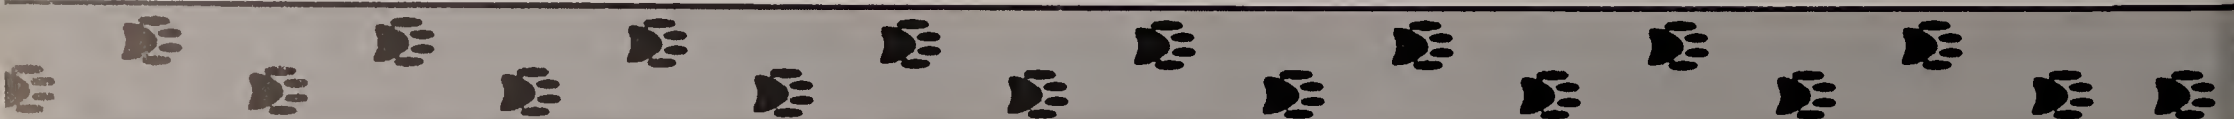

"I have found that my experiences in cheerleading have given me a great deal of self-confidence. It has also made me feel good not only being able to get the crowd of supporters more involved in all of the games, but in helping the teams in getting them psyched up and prepared to win." noted Elizabeth Chevrier, senior co-captain.

Gary Burnham finds a hole made by the South Windsor "Bobcat's" offensive line, and breaks away from a tackle made by the opposing team's defense.

The S.W. Football Team was sure that they were going to win the first game of the season. With possession of the ball and seventeen seconds left, Coach McCarroll called a time out and sent the field goal team out. By then, the whistle sounded and the game ended. The Bobcats had to live with a 0-0 tie against Bristol Eastern.

The Bobcats went on to win their next game but then had an upsetting loss against Simsbury. In their next couple of games they started their comeback with a shut out against Manchester, and two wins against Fermi and Windham. Then came the toughest game of the season, Hartford Public.

Even though this was a heart-breaking loss, the Bobcats weren't done yet. They came back against the East Hartford Hornets for a 14-13 win on a cold Friday night. They also won a overwhelming victory over the Enfield Raiders, with a score of 61-0.

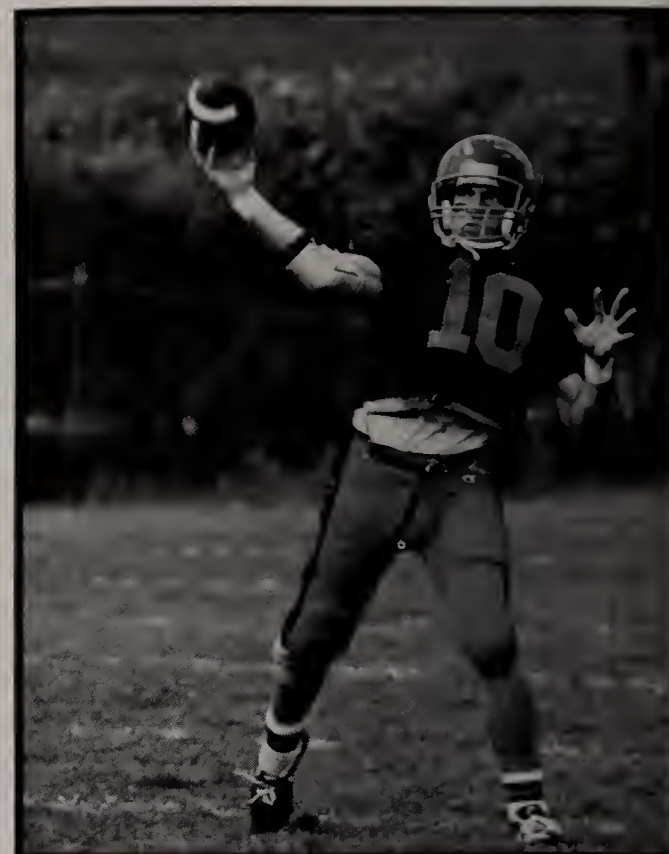

The next game was the big Thanksgiving Day game against Rockville. Even though the Bobcats tried their hardest they came up short. With this game the Bobcats ended their season with a 7-3-1 record. It was a good season for the Bobcats but injuries shattered there hopes for states and CCC East Champs.

The Junior Varsity football team started the season by winning the first three games by shutting out the opposing teams. They ended the season with a 6-5 record.

Football managers are much more than watergirls. When it comes to game time, the managers are at the coaches side taking down stats and putting the record of the game in the scorebook. During practices the managers assist with equipment and supplies and run errands for the coaches.

Of course they also provide water, Gatoraid, or other liquid refreshment to the players during the games, but they also provide moral support and cheer for the players.

This year there were seven managers and two student supervisors, Shara Capson and Jackie Taylor.

Field Hockey

The hot sun was beating on the South Windsor Field Hockey field, which is now located on the Larry Duprey Field. As the opposing team starts their warm up, the South Windsor team psyches themselves up, while at the same time intimidating the other team by cheering as loud as possible. This is the basic routine on a game day.

This year's team's dedication and unity could be seen while watching them play. They worked hard during after school practices and pushed themselves to the limit every day to play as hard as they could, even during the scrimmages at the end of a long workout. Their hard work payed off when they found out that they had made it to states. The first game of states was against Cheshire. They were one of the top teams in our division. Unfortunately this was our only game in states.

"One of my baby sitters played for UCONN. I was inspired by her," stated Wendy Perkins, who has been playing field hockey competitively since sixth grade. "Our entire team was made up of mostly juniors and sophomores, which means that with a lot of hard work our future team will show promise."

Leslie Potyra, enjoys playing field hockey. "It was my sister that made me decide to play. She convinced me that field hockey was a fun sport that I would do well in. Despite the fact that we started the season on a new field," she thinks that this has helped our team come together to work as one.

Boys' Soccer

This year's boys' soccer team posted a record of 3-12-1. This year's team had only three returning players to the varsity squad; thus the season's record reflects a building or growth year. The team was lead by co-captains Shane Wirta and Corey Hale. Corey added the offensive punch with a team high of eight goals. Shane solidified the defense with his spectacular goalkeeping. Shane and Corey did an outstanding job as co-captains. Corey's leadership on the field and Shane's inspirational huddles will sorely be missed. Despite the record of the soccer team there were three players selected to the all conference team. Shane Wirta, Corey Hale, and Dan Beaudry represented the Bobcats. The Bobcats, as the season progressed, joined as a team should, they cooperated with each other and communication proved key on the field. Those who did not start and were on the bench could always be heard supporting their fellow teammates. Hopefully this communication will carry over into next year's soccer season, it could end up being a deciding factor on the scoreboard.

This year's Junior Varsity team had a very productive season. Their record of six wins and ten losses showed a lack of consistency. Coach Regulbuto had a tough time this year because he could never start the same players in the same positions. The Varsity team kept borrowing players throughout the year. The team started playing together by the end of the season. The future is bright for South Windsor soccer teams.

Girls' Soccer

This year's girls' soccer team had an excellent season. Most players feel that the key to a successful team is "togetherness", and that's what this year's team displayed. Junior Stacie Cassarino stated that "The key will be putting together all of our individual talents and abilities in such a way that we can play together as a team. This togetherness will bring us success." Talent, cooperation, and effort are needed in order to have a good team. Senior Jen Sheehan feels that "We have to be together and work together. Friendship is also very important along with being on good terms with our coach and team spirit is needed." This year's team can be described as being "motivated, determined, and ready."

Boy's cross country

The boys cross country team had a great season this year. With tri-captians Chris St. John, Chris Rose and Jerry Ingalls. The head coach was coach Bob Lebreche. For the Central Connecticut Conference they ended their season with a 5-2 victory. This qualified the team for the CCC east meet in Glastonbury. South Windsor was in top shape and came in third, with John Hammond, Chris Rose and Chris St. John, qualifying for the all conference team.

At the state meet at Wickem Park, the team had a dissapointing day, losing to the other teams. For John Hammond, this meet qualified him for the all state team. This made He was the first Junior in South Windsor to be given this honor.

Girls' Cross Country

The past season was a good one for the South Windsor Girls' Cross Country Team. The team consisted of nine runners led by captain Laura Salcius. Laura qualified for the All State team as well as Mariah Zorning.

The girls ended this season with a record of 3 wins and 13 losses. Good effort was turned in by all and this was a season that they all can be proud of. "We were really successful this season, I feel that it's because we had extensive training and worked together as a team. At the end of the season, it really came down to the wire, we were so close to winning the CCC East title. Unfortunately, we sacrificed two of our key runners, Shari Engman and Karlyn Banda because of injury and that hurt us a little in that particular meet," said Tracie Wasielewski, a junior and also a key runner on the team.

"People think we're crazy when they see us running, putting ourselves through physical and mental stress. Running isn't only addictive, but it has a lot to do with being part of a small team and understanding each other. Sometimes I think we're insane, but if we weren't given this opportunity to be really weird, what would we do?"

Volleyball

This year's varsity volleyball team did "Extremely well!", remarked their coach Ms. Cloutier. Coach Cloutier finds this year's young team to be clever and full of skill. As for cooperation, fun, and productive practices, Ms. Cloutier says "This is the best year yet for me due to every team member's dedication and good attitude." The varsity volleyball team finished with a 9-9 record during the regular season to qualify for the state tournament.

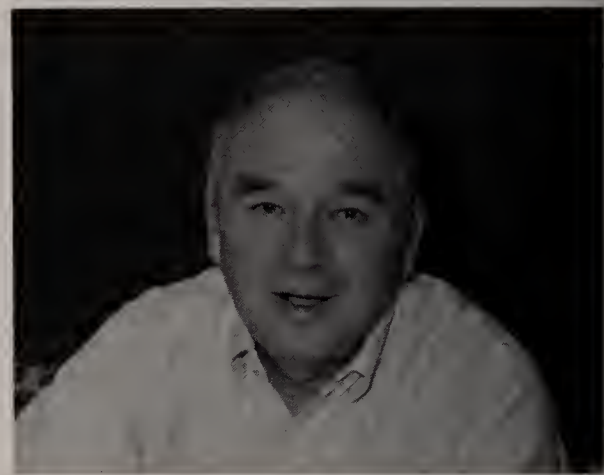

Only one senior was on the team and inexperience was a factor early in the season. Team captains were Gretchen Raffa, Katie Dieter, and Diane Ericson. Although the team won four 3-2 matches it was inconsistent during the season. The highlight of the season was defeating Rockville 3-2 in the final game to qualify for the tournament. Other outstanding players were, Maria Georgeadis, Monica Tremblay, and Caty Maclean. The girls varsity volleyball player should be very proud of a job well done.

Hockey

Aspectacular season is the best way to describe this year's Bobcats. The team consists of nine seniors, six juniors, three sophomores, and four freshmen. Helping out the Bobcats this year were three hard working managers; Rita Montano, Tracy Brown, and Carrie Pugrab. The team had only two losses in the regular season, both to Fairfield Prep. Senior Tri-Captains, Brian Murray, Noah Borrero, and Kevin Molloy proved to be true team leaders throughout the season.

Although senior Steve Looby is a three year veteran, this season he felt like a rookie. The team lacked a back up goalie, and they called on Steve to fill the spot. "After two years on defense, it was a challenge to play a new position. Mark is ranked as one of the best in the state, so I didn't expect to see much ice time," said Steve.

The 'cats are ranked number one in CIAC Division I and expect to go far in the state tournament.

Jeff House is a defenseman on the team and gets a lot of ice time, and although he doesn't spend much time with his teammates off the ice, during games, they all work together. When asked what he likes best about hockey, he said, "The contact, I like contact."

Steve Looby started out playing defense three years ago. He is now a back up goalie. Steve says, "The best part of hockey is practice, because I gain more experience to become a better goalie."

Boys' Basketball

The basketball team continued to set new standards for South Windsor, with a 13-7 record. The team with the help of eleven dedicated seniors has earned new respect in the league.

The season was a success even though it seemed to follow a roller coaster path. The excitement never ceased. The games against Bloomfield are an example. The first game was a loss by twenty points, but in the second game we scored 98 points and beat them by twenty.

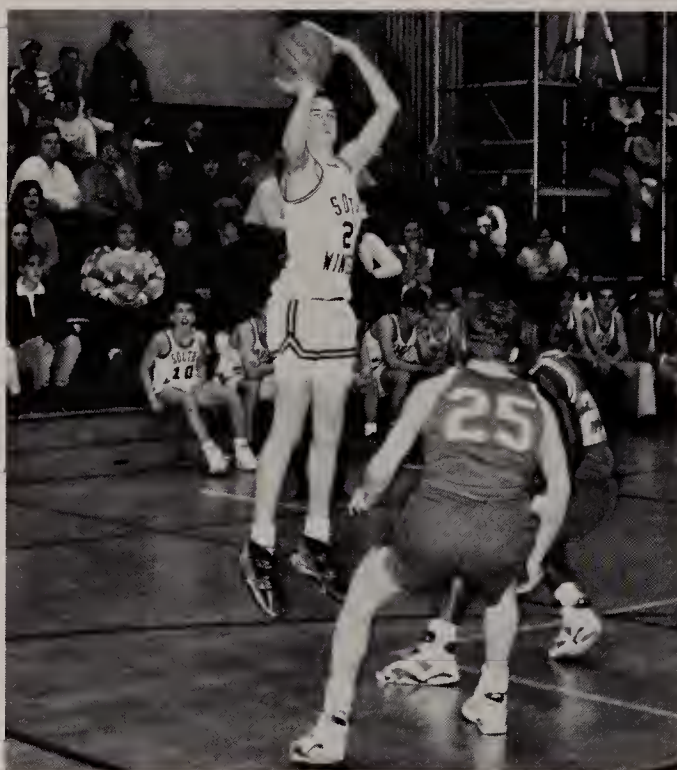

Although the team did not reach its goal of being the league champion it did accomplish several things that made the season memorable. The victory over Hartford Public in the last game of the regular season was the first time we have defeated Public in over a decade. Another was a narrow victory over Rockville, at Rockville.

The most important thing about the season was the fact that we made the state tournament for the second straight year and there were high hopes of success.

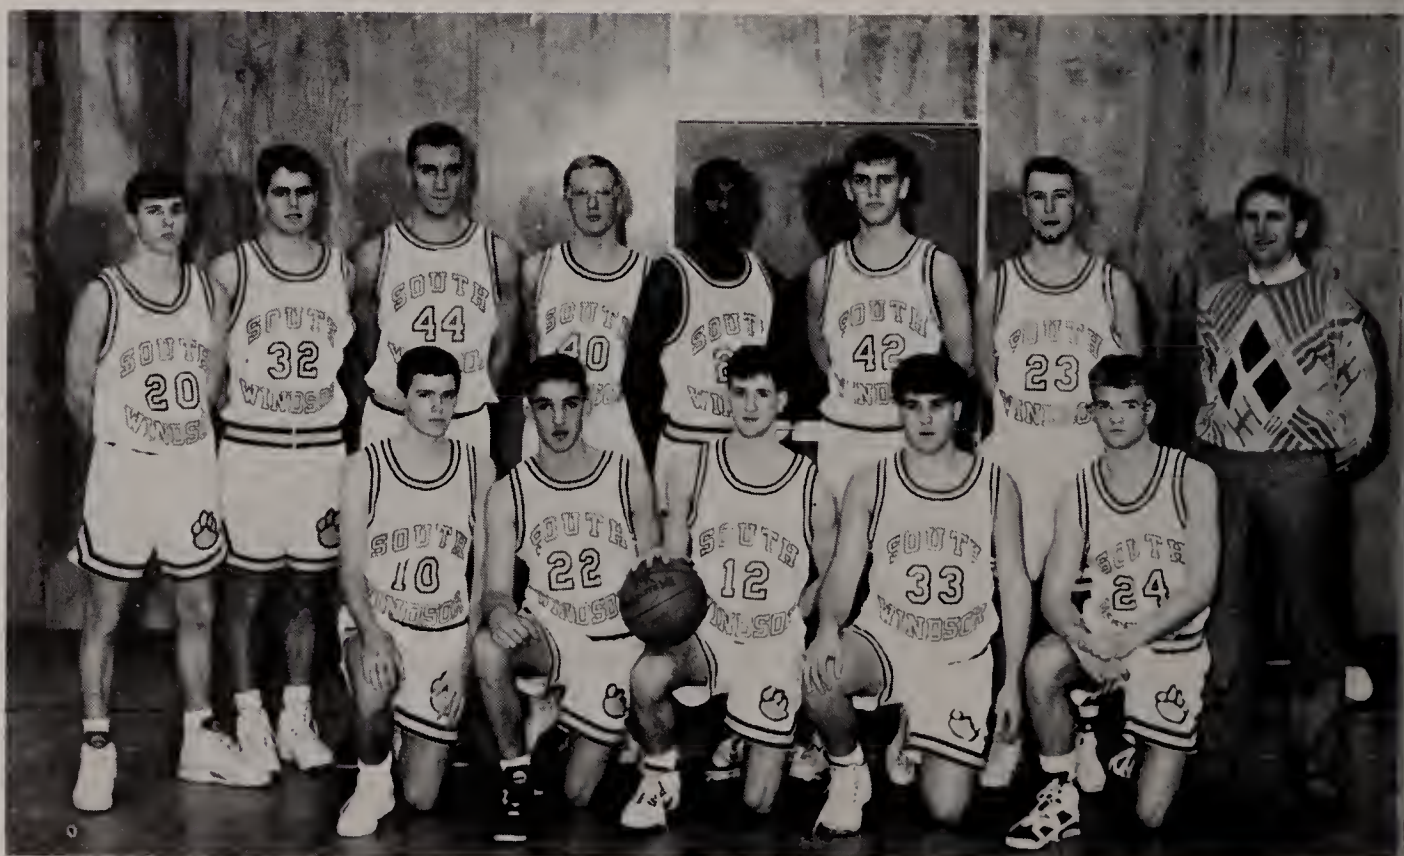

"Together We Will," said Dan Beaudry, "This was the team's motto. We had hoped that it would unite us and make us into a true 'team'. As far as success goes, 'Together we did'."

Girls Basketball

The girls' basketball team had a tough season and ended with a 9-12 record. The team consisted of one senior, Leigh Kempinski, seven juniors and one sophomore. It was a young team but they played hard throughout the season. Close games against Enfield, which they won by one point, and another against Rockville, which they lost by one point, showed just how tough the team and the season was.

Junior standout, Stacy Cassarino, suffered a knee injury early in the season but continued to play the remainder of the season though not at her best.

The girls' J.V. team had a good season with a 12-8 record. One of the teams victories was in an overtime game they won 47-44 against Tolland. The J.V. girls lost a game here and there but ended up with a winning season.

Gymnastics

The gymnastics team had one of their all time best seasons, finishing with a winning record of 9-8-0. The team started off the season with a new coach, Doreen Candee, and the assistant coach from last year, Debi Bugbee. This years captains were Sophomore Jessica Amen, and Junior Rebecca Mastronarde.

For a very young team, they did very well. Only four members of last years' team returned for this season. The only Senior to return, Kathy Beal, broke her leg in a pre-season practice and was unable to compete for the remainder of the season. The team was led by Junior Becky Mastronarde, Sophomore Jessica Amen and Freshmen Heather Tonkin.

The team itself missed qualifying for states by only a few points. Their average score was 119. Although the team as a whole did not qualify, two individuals did. At States, Becky Mastronarde qualified in the all-around and Jessica Amen qualified on both beam and floor.

"Each gymnast has had a major significance on the team and I felt proud of their accomplishments as a team as well as individuals. Everyone on the team has shown tremendous support for each other and its been great to be part of it." said Coach Candee.

"I was extremely impressed with the team this year. Everyone was enthusiastic and that enthusiasm showed in our performance. It was South Windsor's best year, and it can only get better with a team as young as this one." Junior captain Becky Mastronarde.

Winter Cheerleading

The winter cheerleaders participate in supporting the Bobcat basketball team. The winter cheerleaders spend a lot of time working hard at their practices every Monday and Wednesday after school and on Tuesday and Friday's before every game. Although the fans were really supportive this year compared to years in the past, the question of whether or not two cheerleading squads are needed remains. The problem with having two squads is that instead of spending time mastering old cheers they have to teach new cheerleaders the basic cheers such as B-O-B-C-A-T-S, Bobcats Are Here, and Were The Best, when they could be working on producing new cheers. The difference between the fall cheerleaders and the winter cheerleaders is the excitement of participating in the choreography of the half time dance.

"Being a junior at South Windsor High School gives you time to enjoy the preparations you have made for the past two years. The feelings are a mixture of stability at SWHS, and preparation for college". Dan Beaudry states, "The best part of being a junior is that you are in the middle of the road in age groups. There is an element of seniority over the underclassmen which is combined with the opportunity to learn from the seniors".

Junior Activities

The junior class raised about six thousand dollars for class activities by selling cookie tins and assorted gifts which were sponsored by Readers Digest. The fundraiser took place during the holiday season; therefore, many of the items offered had to do with the upcoming holidays. The money raised will save each junior attending the prom about $10 assuming all juniors attend.

There were gifts offered to insure that as many juniors as possible participated in this fundraiser. Readers Digest gave prizes to the students who sold over $18. The junior class also offered an incentive to sell; the person who sold the most received $50. Although there was only one top seller, other students won prizes such as volleyballs, cameras, walkmans, and keychains.

The top seller, J.P. Page, sold $420.50 worth of merchandise to his friends, parents and extended family members. J.P. received the $50 and a telephone answering machine as his prizes.

The fundraiser was a success because of the large participation and cooperation of the entire junior class. This activity pulled the class together and showed what to expect from next year's Senior class.

One of the many duties of Michael Melocowsky, the junior class president, is to help the treasurer account for all the incoming money from the fundraiser. All of the class officers went to home-rooms to collect the money. Without all of their dedicated work, the juniors would have ended up paying about twenty dollars more for the prom. These class officers have successfully led the junior class in all activities.

Class president, Michael Melocowsky waits patiently for instructions about the fundraiser collection. He has two boxes of M&M's ready in case he has a hunger attack. Mike, along with the rest of the officers, helped to get the junior class organized.

Elegant dresses, big luxurious stretch limousines or fancy sport cars and of course, the man of their dreams. This is what many junior girls think of when the Junior Prom is mentioned. To many, the prom is something most of us have been dreaming of since we were very small. While the girls were dreaming and pretending to get ready for their prom by dressing in their mother's old dresses and high heels, the boys were outside getting dirty playing with their favorite Tonka toys.

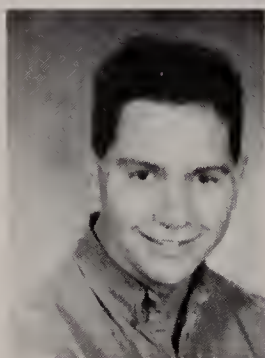

Traditions for the class of 1993 will be no different from those of past years. It is finally our turn to wear sequins and satin or cummerbunds and tuxedos. Following the Junior Prom, off to the beach we will go. This is what most guys can't wait for...playing volleyball or going for a quick dip in the chilly waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

Being together with close friends of today and old friends of the past, is what the prom is all about. Leaving one last thought, the prom is the time for all juniors to come together and unite as one. This is one of the happiest moments in high school other than graduation. To reminisce on our Junior Prom, we will always have pictures.

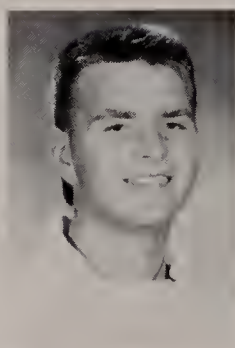

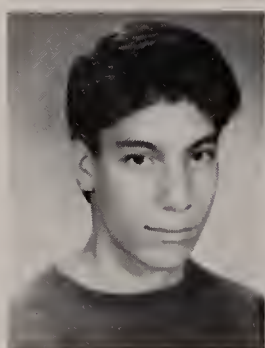

Lovissa Williams, Prom Committee chairwoman shows her spirit by getting involved in the class activities. Thanks to Lovissa our Junior Prom was a very enjoyable evening.

What is a Friend?

What is a friend?

I will tell you.

It is a person with whom you dare to be yourself.

Your soul can be naked with him.

He seems to ask of you to put on nothing, only to be what you are.

He does not want you to be better or worse.

When you are with him you feel as a prisoner feels who has been declared innocent.

You do not have to be on your guard.

You can say what you think,

so long as it is genuinely you.

He understands those contradictions in your nature that lead others to mis-judge you.

With him you breathe freely.

You can avow your little vanities & envies & hates & vicious sparks, your meannesses & absurdities

& in opening them up to him, they are lost, dissolved on the white ocean of his loyalty.

He understands.

You do not have to be careful.

You can abuse him, neglect him, tolerate him.

Best of all, you can keep still with him.

It makes no matter.

He likes you.

He is like fire that purges to the bone.

He understands.

You can weep with him, sin with him, laugh with him, pray with him.

Through it all-and underneath-he sees, knows and loves you.

A friend?

What is a friend?

Just one, I repeat, with whom you dare to be yourself.

Model Office

Amy Binkus, Melissa Hudson, Alison Ladd, Mrs. Bickford, Leanne Fournier, and Josephine Green make up the model office.

Students work on material submitted by the faculty and staff and offer such services as; typing of originals, taking dictation, photocopying and collating, transcription of dictated materials and other office related services.

Amy Binkus and Leanne Fournier enjoy a snack at the open house that model office held on February 25 to acquaint the faculty and staff to the services available through SOS-U.

If you have previously taken keyboarding and enjoyed it then you probably would love Model Office. This innovative new program was designed to give students practical, hands-on experience in the real world of business.

Model Office, (SOS-U Superior Office Services-Unlimited) is designed as a business, and students are put in situations that a real office worker might encounter. You can either be a receptionist, general clerk, billing clerk, office manager, word processor, or secretary.

Leanne Fournier puts her typing skills to work in the model office.

SAFE RIDES (644-4442)

It's Friday or Saturday night somewhere between ten and two, how are you going to get home? An answer to this question is South Windsor Safe Rides. This organization, consisting of high school students, meets at the police station (though there is no affiliation) to wait for teenagers to call.

While waiting for a call for assistance, members involve themselves in card games, board games, deep philosophy, and yes, though shamed to admit it, gossip (but it was late, and we get loose of reason), and sleep, something all us teenagers seem to lack. This is the one place where teenagers can hang out until two with their parents' blessings. If you want to join, stop in anytime.

Empty Bowl raises money for hungry

BAM!!!! You wake up and you're not in your room. You look around for your clock to see what hour in the morning it is, but it's not there. Then it hits you . . . you're lying in the street face down. What has happened to your house? What are you going to do for food? Your future is bleak as you make your way down to the homeless shelter and the soup kitchen.

You do fine for a couple days while you adjust to your new environment, but soon you find there are no jobs. No one seems willing to help you. Before you faint, your final thought is of happier times when you had a house of your own.

Wouldn't it be nice to be able to have food when you needed it?

The Empty Bowl project hopes to do just that for homeless and hungry people. The project has set a national goal of $1,000,000 to be raised by World Food Day (October 16th). The project also hopes to raise awareness of hunger.

The idea for Empty Bowl is simple. People with pottery skills make bowls and invite their friends over for a meal of soup and bread. The friends make a donation to a local hunger organization and keep a bowl to remind them of hungry people.

At SWHS, Mrs. Susi Kinsloe-Byers' Intermediate/Advanced Ceramics students made over 85 bowls, Mrs. Gerry Peterson's Bake Shop made bread, and Mrs. Maggie Mortenson's Independent Living class made soup. The meal, served on Wednesday, was enjoyed by faculty members who contributed $5.00 for each meal and bowl. The proceeds, over $400, will be donated to the Cornerstone Foundation Soup Kitchen in Rockville.

So the next time you refuse to eat your green beans and your mom says to be grateful because people are starving in China, be reminded that they're not only in China but in America.

by Dan Monks

Alan Storch helps prepare the food for the Empty Bowls.

Joanna Grant works hard at creating a beautiful bowl that was used in the program for the hungry.

Mrs. Brown enjoys some of the delicious food cooked by students, served in bowls made especially for the Empty Bowl project.

Mr. Ford

A man who will be remembered always for his originality and intelligence.

On October 20, 1991, the South Windsor community lost a great teacher, colleague, and friend. Robert Ford taught in the South Windsor school system for 28 years. He began his teaching career at Ellsworth School.

Bob Ford was a very caring and considerate man who will be greatly missed. He was a philosophical man whose knowledge and intellect is a loss to the community.

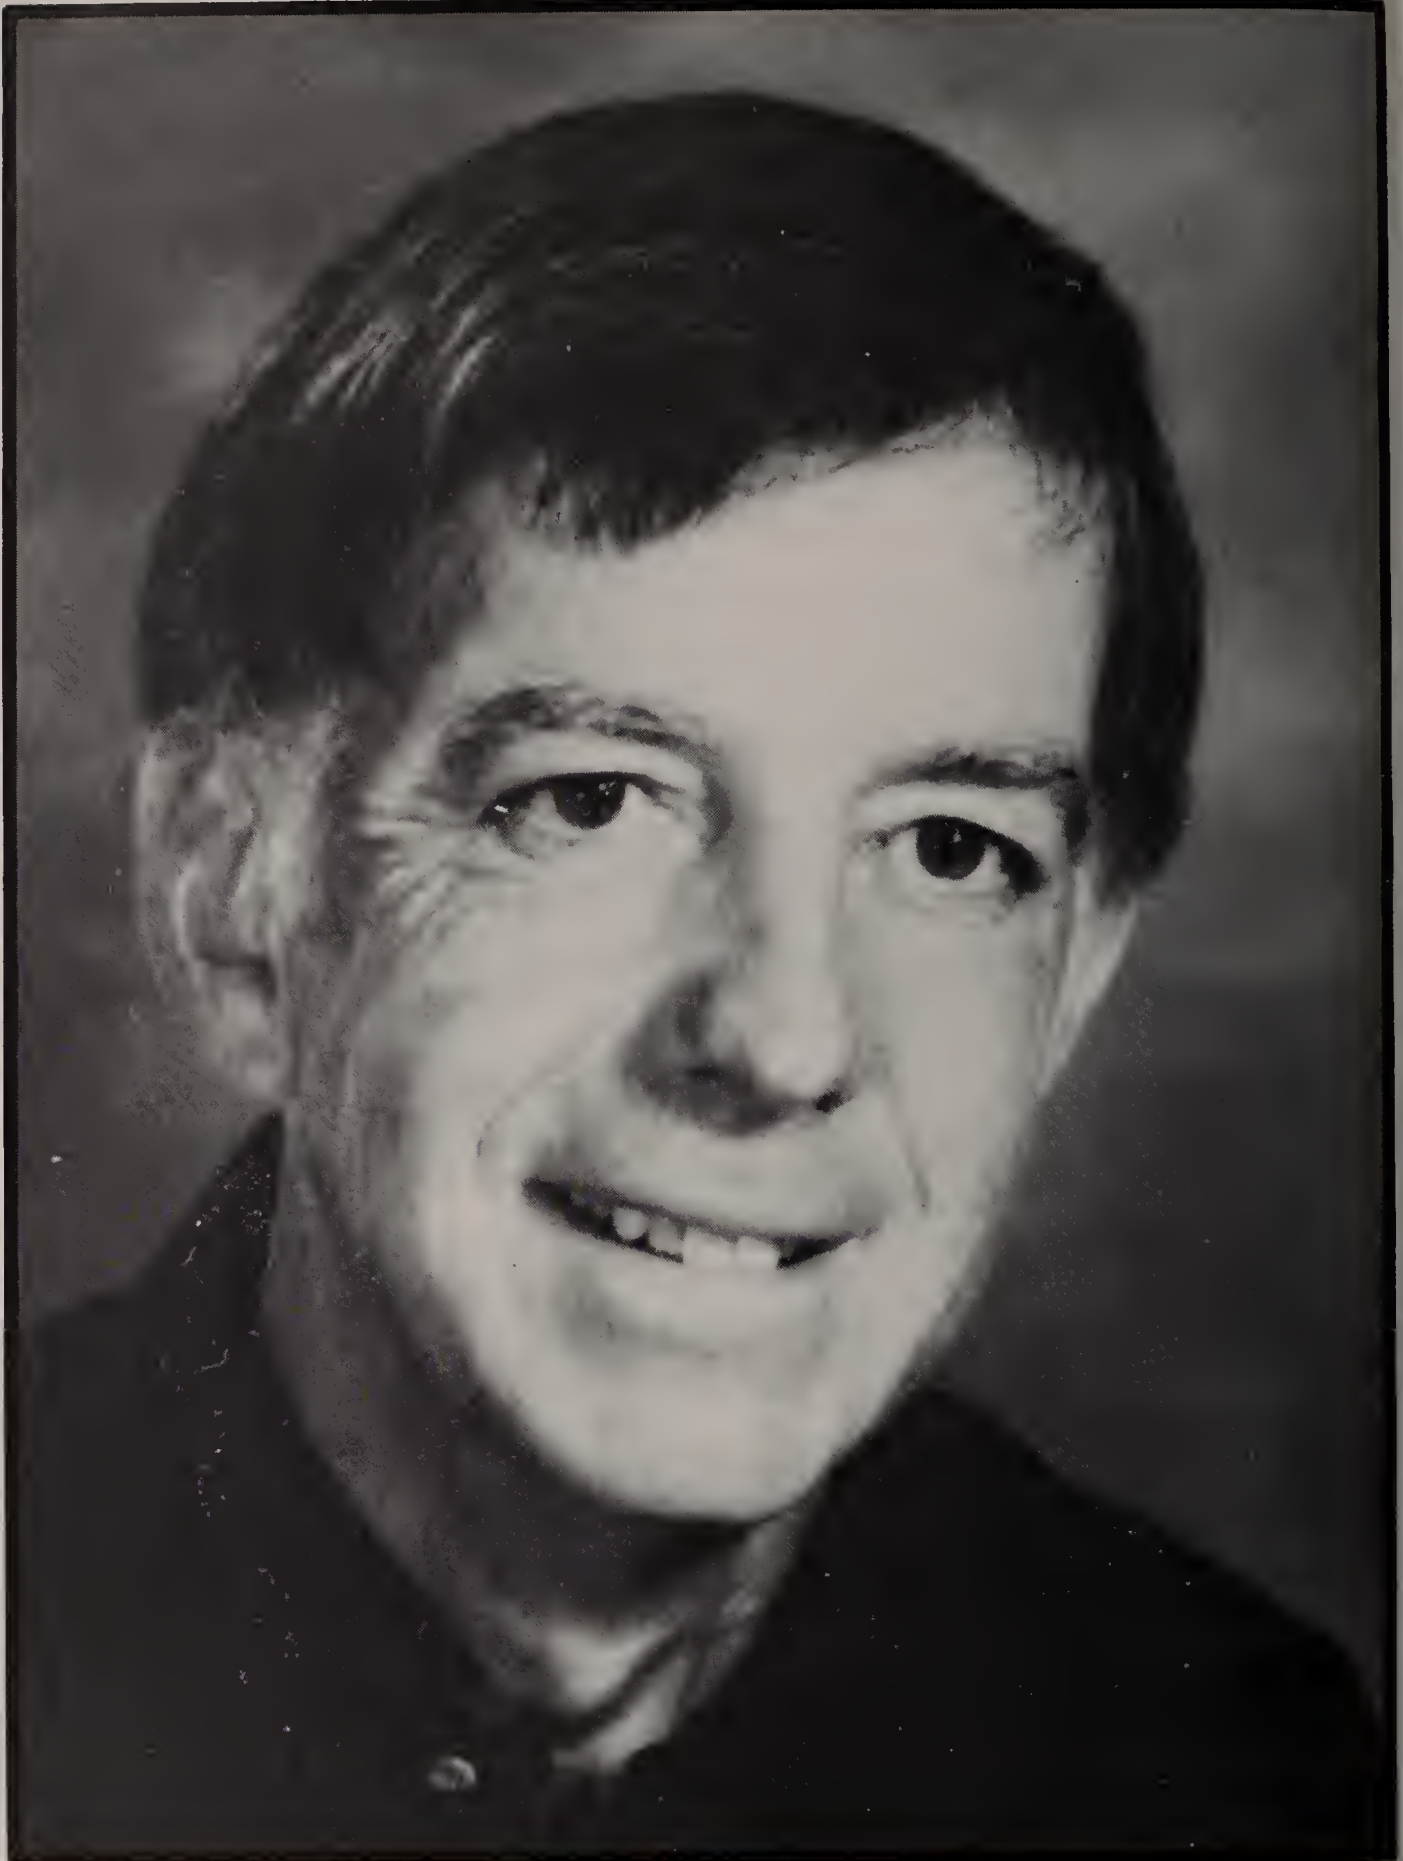

Through talking with his colleagues, our staff learned a great deal about this man. His friends and colleagues remembered him as one the most intelligent teacher at Timothy Edwards. Teachers would go out of their way to go and talk to him during the day. Mr. Ford was also an avid reader. He was Timothy Edwards Middle School resident expert on current events or whatever topic was being discussed.

Mr. Ford was an effective teacher because he of his unique teaching style. He was constantly searching for new and dynamic ways to teach his students. He was open to do anything. If he believed in something, it was worth all the extra work it required. Some faculty members referred to him as the great innovator.

Mr. Ford was always learning, he thought of himself as a student too. He even continued his education while teaching, he was taking classes at Central University.

Bob Ford was known among the staff as the king of field trips. He took every opportunity possible to go on a field trip to enrich his students knowledge and understanding. In his mind, the ideal field trip would incorporate both the academic and physical aspects of a lesson. The Block Island Trip turned out to be just that. On this trip the students were sent on a treasure hunt all over the Island. Therefore they would ride bikes which called for a lot of physical activity. There also was a volleyball game that involved both the students and teachers. It was a competition where the winning student team takes on the teachers. Mr. Ford would always make little mistakes so the students could win and feel better about themselves. He enjoyed helping students of all ability levels. Also there was a bonfire where ghost stories would be told. Mr. Ford would tell his infamous Screwy Louie story. He would tell the students that Louie had followed them to Block Island. The students loved to hear of Screwy Louie.

The story of Screwy Louie began in what is now known as Ellsworth School. A family once lived there and they had a retarded child named Louie. In those times a child who was retarded was an embarrassment to the family so they hid him in the attic. Louie was so upset that he would try to escape, and one day he pushed so hard on the window that he fell out onto the playground. Louie was killed instantly but his spirit lived on forever. It was said that he was seen in the windows of Ellsworth after his death. Stories were also told that the lights would go out without anyone touching them.

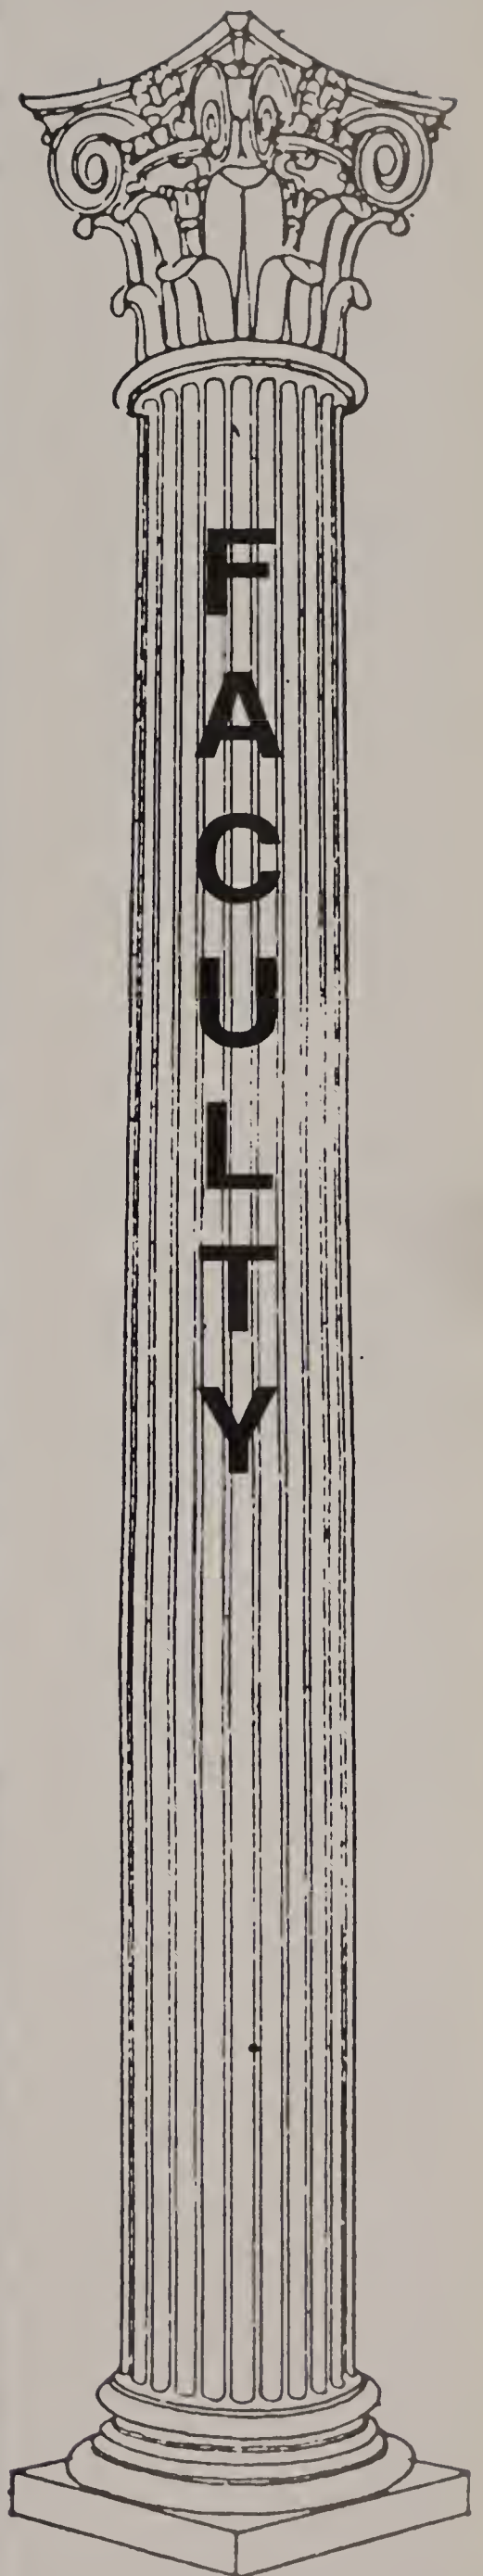

Mr. Ford started his teaching career at Ellsworth School and would tell this story then. Even today people say that if the sun shines right in the window you can see the shadow of Screwy Louie.

But Louie did not stay in Ellsworth all those years, Mr. Ford said he came to Timothy Edwards with him and even to Block Island. No one cared to ask whether this story is true; it was better to just believe and enjoy the mystery.

Mr. Ford was always there for his students if they needed help or just someone to listen. He treated his students as his equals. He would tell the students of how when he was young he didn't even finish high school, but he regretted it. So he went back to school and got his GED. From there he continued his education and became a very successful teacher. He always told students how he regretted missing all that time.

Mr. Ford had a different style of teaching, he was a strong believer in group discussion. If you were to sit in on one of his classes you would notice that he would not just lecture, he would incorporate the information into stories. This way the students would be interested in the lesson. He never followed rigid schedules, he hated them. His grades were never done with a calculator, all were done in his head.

He became interested in running in 1976 but he was not in good physical shape, actually he was really out of shape. Mr. Beaulieu got him interested in running. They would run together but Mr. Beaulieu did not last, Mr. Ford continued to run for years after. He still ran regularly up until the time he passed away. Mr. Ford proved to be a valuable asset to the South Windsor school system and he will be greatly missed.
